Two kids go on 'campout'

Two youths show up after 24-hour absence, manhunt

by JOHN MAES

Never have so few contributed so much to the nerves, headaches, high blood pressures and gray hairs of so many.

And before the 24-hour escapade came to a happy conclusion in a Des Plaines grocery store Wednesday afternoon, Mark Roberts, 11, and his playmate, Michael Burkett, 7, of Schiller Park had been the object of a massive manhunt and a sleepless night for quite a few people in the Bell Trailer Park, 4009 Mannheim Rd., where the two boys live.

Mark had told his 12-year-old brother David that he and Michael were going camping all night in Schiller Woods and with $12.50 and a change of clothes between them, set out on the adventure.

NEARBY ROBINSON Woods was where the naked, strangled bodies of three Chicago youths, John Schuessler, 13, a brother Anton, 11, and Robert Peterson, 13, were found in October of 1955. The slaying has remained unsolved.

When the boys failed to return home for dinner that night their parents began to worry and notified Schiller Park police. Their anxiety festered as the night wore on while more than 100 searchers combed the woods near Irving Park and River Roads for signs of the youngsters.

"I took the phone outside and kept it on the steps right next to me waiting for it to ring," said Michael's mother, Mrs. Charlene Burkett. "I cried a little but kept thinking to pull myself together."

Mrs. Burkett did not participate in the hunt herself but her husband Michael, an iron worker at the new Sears Tower in Chicago, joined the Cook County Sheriff's police, forest rangers and police from Schiller Park and three other towns in the mammoth search.

After spending the night in a culvert about three blocks south of Touhy Ave., the boys turned up Wednesday afternoon at the Convenient Food Mart, 1920 Mannheim Road to buy some soda pop, according to Det. Donald Hoogland, of Schiller Park police.

"THEY SAW a newspaper story in the store about the search going on for them," said Hoogland, "and it took them a while to get the nerve to call their parents."

Two food store employes said they knew about the search but had no idea the pair of messy-faced boys who came in were the ones being sought.

Schiller Park police picked up the two boys and mothers and sons were finally reunited.

"We were just glad to get the kids back," said Mrs. Burkett, who had not slept since Tuesday." The first thing I asked him was 'why did you do this', and he cried that he wanted to go camping and sleep out overnight in the woods."

Things are just getting back to normal now, according to Mrs. Burkett. Both boys, she said "are being punished and will not be allowed to do the things they could have done this summer."

"It was a long night and day," said Hoogland. "But it was worth it."

IT WAS PLAY DAY at Lake Opeka for Des Plaines young people as the second youth activity, sponsored by the city, took place Wednesday. Thirteen to 18-year-olds attended the event, which included a golf tournament, boating, softball and an evening patio dance. The next activity will be a Cubs baseball game Friday, July 27, with a bus leaving from the Chicago and North Western Ry. station at 8 a.m.

Four new school chiefs in East Maine district

by REGINA OEHLER

East Maine Elementary School Dist. 63 will be starting the new school year with four new principals and a new assistant superintendent.

The school board Tuesday approved the appointments of James Lumb, Margery F. Dick, Raymond W. Owens and Richard L. Hetke as principals. Lenore Page, formerly Nelson School principal, was appointed assistant superintendent for instruction.

MRS. PAGE IS replacing Dr. Henry Alexander, who has requested reassignment within the district.

Since she started working for Dist. 63 in 1963, Mrs. Page has taught at Washington School and worked as reading coordinator at Viola Nelson School.

She has served on several district committees, including the Faculty Advisory Committee. She is also co-author of and consultant for a recently published language arts series.

Mrs. Page received her bachelor's degree from the University of Cincinnati in 1957 and her master's degree from the University of Akron in 1963. She began her teaching career in Cincinnati and Akron, Ohio, in 1957, then joined Dist. 63 six years later.

JAMES LUMB, who has been serving as acting principal for Apollo School was named principal. Louis Mitchell Bers, who has served as acting assistant principal, is now assistant principal.

Prior to being named acting principal at Apollo, Lumb served as a mathematics teacher at East Maine Junior High and at Apollo. He became district mathematics consultant and Apollo's assistant principal.

He received his bachelor's degree from Northern Illinois University in 1967 and his master's degree in education in 1969, also from NIU.

Lumb lives in Mount Prospect.

Bers, a native of Chicago who now lives in Skokie with his wife Hetty, started working for the district in 1969 as a social studies teacher and basketball coach both at East Maine Junior High and then Apollo.

Bers graduated from Niles West High School in 1964. He earned his bachelor's degree at Bradley University in Peoria and his master's at Loyola, then began his career in East Peoria in 1968. The next year he joined the Dist. 63 staff.

RICHARD L. HETKE, the new Adlai Stevenson School principal, is replacing Barry Ekman who resigned this spring in order to become director of a private therapeutic school.

Following two years of teaching in California, Hetke taught in Arlington Heights for five years. He became Ridge Elementary School principal in 1956. In 1971, he served as Special Projects Coordinator in the Central Office Administration in Arlington Heights.

During his career, Hetke has developed a Drug Abuse Program, a model for Teacher Evaluation and served as chairman of a district-wide Gifted Child Study Committee.

Hetke received his bachelor's in 1947 from Roosevelt University and his master's in 1955 from the same school. He is now working on his doctorate at Northern Illinois University.

A native of Chicago, he lives in Arlington Heights with his wife Susan and their son Dick, a senior at Dartmouth College.

MARGERY F. DICK, who was appointed principal at Emma S. Melzer, is replacing Daniel Cunniff, now director for Instruction for public schools in Fairbanks, Alaska. Mrs. Dick has taught fourth grade at Washington, Ballard and Nelson Schools, and has served as a Dis-

Minor pleads guilty in murder role

A 16-year-old Oak Park girl has pleaded guilty to a delinquency petition naming her in the June 29 beating of Cindy Graf, 16, of Des Plaines.

According to Assistant State's Atty. Charles Aron, the girl, whose name is being withheld by police, will be sentenced in Cook County Juvenile Court Aug. 8.

Miss Graf was beaten after she witnessed the shotgun murder of her boyfriend, Richard Bollacker, 21, of Chicago, in the Grand Forest Preserve area near Rand and Ballard roads in Des Plaines.

The attackers had shot at her but missed, and then beat the girl, leaving her for dead.

Aron said last Friday the Oak Park girl might give state's evidence against three other suspects being held in connection with Bollacker's murder but refused yesterday to say whether she will testify for the state at a preliminary hearing in Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court July 31.

The three other suspects, all of Chicago, have been charged with murder, attempted murder and aggravated battery by Des Plaines police.

Peter Mukite, 21, of 1832 Haddon St., was arrested by Des Plaines police June 29, while a pair of alleged accomplices, Richard "Ricky" Del Moro, 18, of 4733 Palmer Ave., and John Murphy 17, of 5514 Augusta Blvd., were captured by Chicago authorities three days later.

The three are being held without bail in Cook County Jail pending their court appearance.

The Oak Park girl has been slated to undergo a court ordered social and clinical evaluation. She is being held at the Audy Home in Chicago.

Two Northwest suburban congressmen agree that ethics law needs tightening, 'but let's not make it too restrictive'

by GREG KINCZEWSKI
—Special to the Herald—

WASHINGTON D.C. — Do congressmen, as public servants and policy makers, have an ethical duty to tell their constituents how much money they make and where it comes from?

Representatives Philip M. Crane, R-12th, and Samuel H. Young, R-10th, don't think so, even though both of them are willing to reveal their own financial interests past the point required by law.

The present law, which both Crane and Young think should be strengthened, requires representatives to make annual public disclosures of some of their financial interests — primarily those that do "substantial" business with the federal government or are regulated by it.

REPRESENTATIVES also are to report any source of income more than $5,000 for nongovernmental services rendered, any capital gain of more than $5,000 and fees for speeches and writings totaling more than $300 from a single source.

"The present law does an adequate job of revealing potential conflicts of interest between a member's private holdings and public duties — which is what it's supposed to do — but I would like to see 'substantial' business be replaced by a more specific guideline," Crane said.

"That word, 'substantial,' could be abused — accidentally or purposely — by members. I know that if I had any doubt I would contact the House Ethics Committee and ask for advice," he added.

Members who do ask the Ethics Committee for advice talk to John Swanner, committee staff director. And his advice is to list everything that could possibly be interpreted as conflict-of-interest.

"There's no way I can force a congressman to list his financial interests if in his opinion — it does not have 'substantial' business with the government. But I'm confident they take my advice because they know how bad it would be if a reporter caught them," Swanner said.

YOUNG, ALTHOUGH he definitely does not favor congressmen having to list the amount of their income, feels very strongly that the disclosure law should make congressmen list the sources of their income — which he did on his own this year.

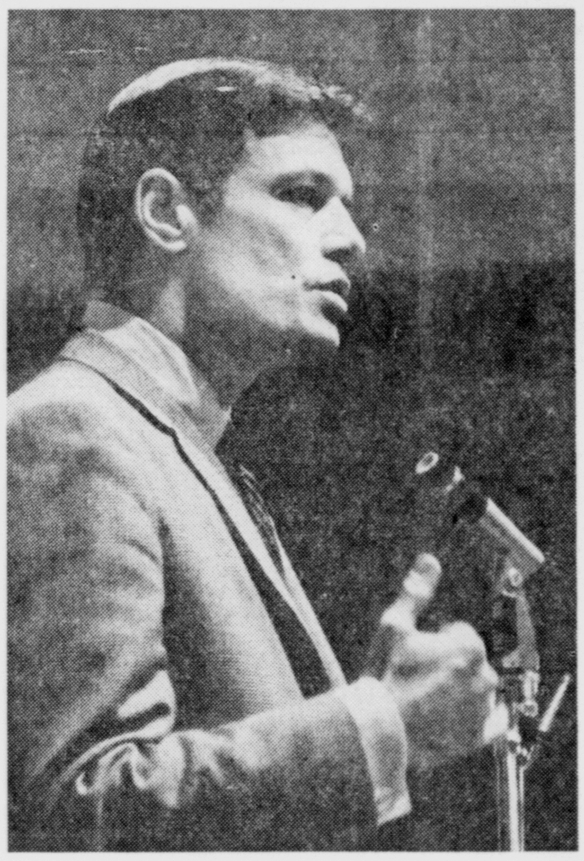
"I don't see what good it would do for the public to know what my dollar-and-cents worth is — my own children don't know that. But I think it makes sense for the public to have adequate knowledge of where my financial interests are," Young said.

"This country has traditionally been governed by citizen-legislators — persons who made their mark in private life before seeking public office. Obviously they have financial interests and the public should know what they are in order to spot potential conflicts-of-interest and to get a better picture of the congressman," he continued.

"Because of this I think the public disclosure law should include all sources of income for congressmen. When I filled out the form under the present law, I found that I have five sources of 1972 income which did not have to be made public," Young said.

THE FIVE SOURCES of income to which Young referred, and which he made public on his own, were:

- Ownership of an office building in Skokie.
- Minority interest in a small corporation engaged in the manufacture of foodstuffs, located in Los Angeles.
- Partnership in the ownership of "certain real estate improved by a small plant building."
- His wife's partnership in an interior decorating business.
- Trusteeship of a family trust owning some 140 acres in southern Illinois.



U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane

U.S. Rep. Samuel H. Young

Young's financial interests, listed as required by the public financial disclosure law and which he has placed in a "blind trust", are:

- Common stock in excess of $5,000 fair market value in American Hospital Supply Corp.
- A capital gain exceeding $5,000 for the sale of 900 shares of common stock of Alberto-Culver Corp.
- Income in excess of $1,000 from his law and consulting firms.

CRANE'S DISCLOSURE statement for 1972 showed he had nothing to declare except the income he earned making speeches.

He is not required by law to reveal how much money he made from those speeches, but he said it was approximately $12,000 — an impressive figure since the top earners in the House were recorded by two presidential candidates, $30,491 by Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., and $20,823 by Paul McCloskey Jr., R-Calif.

Organizations from which Crane received $300 or more for speaking engagements were: Tap Root 14, Erie County Federation of Republican Women, Church League of America, DAR National Defense, Chicago Financial Advertisers, Hillsdale College, Independent Postal System of America, National Economic Council, Illinois Manufacturer's Association, Town Hall Lecture Series, Walworth County Women's Club of Wisconsin, Petroleum Equipment Institute, American College of Dentists, Illinois Banker's Association, National Association of Manufacturers and American University Student Government.

THE 12TH DISTRICT representative said his $42,500 congressional salary is also augmented by "a few thousand dollars" from a small farm in Indiana — "and that's no conflict of interest because I've always opposed farm subsidies," Crane added.

Several bills have been submitted to the House Standards (Ethics) Committee that would require complete (meaning amounts as well as sources of income) financial statements from all members. Supporters of the bill hope the Watergate scandal will help passage.

Neither Crane nor Young would like to see such a stringent law — although they stress that they would comply with it if it did pass.

"I'm not keen on such bills for a number of reasons," Crane said. "If a person hasn't been financially successful he might be embarrassed and not run for public office even though he's qualified.

"If a person has been successful financially, he might not seek office because he might not want to parade his wealth around — either out of modesty, fear of kidnaping or solicitation," Crane said.

"I SEE NOTHING improper about congressmen listing for the public their financial interests — especially if there's a possibility of conflict-of-interest — but exact details should remain private," he said.

Young mentioned many of the same points that Crane did and stressed that even public officials are entitled to some privacy.

"How can the public better judge a congressman's votes and motives by knowing the exact amount of his income instead of his sources of income? Is anything really gained, especially when you consider the embarrassing situations such as disclosure could cause for the congressman and his family?"

FBI identifies amnesia victim

'Joe Neff' sought for embezzlement

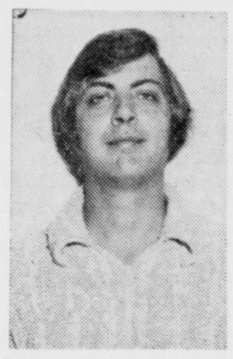
by JOE SWICKARD

"Joe Neff," the amnesia victim who had the Arlington Heights police stymied for 10 days, has been identified as Orville Joseph Rudy of Wapakoneta, Ohio, by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Police said a finger print check by the FBI revealed Rudy is being sought by Ohio authorities in connection with a $1,700 shortage from a Wapakoneta oil firm.

Arlington Heights detectives Dick Robinson and Guy Karms said Rudy disappeared from the small eastern Ohio town on or shortly before July 2. Officials of the Bonded Oil and Refining Co. said Rudy did not report for work and the shortage was discovered the same day.

A MISSING-PERSON report was filed on Rudy on July 10. A warrant for his arrest on an embezzlement charge was sworn out with the sheriff's department of Auglaize County, Ohio, at the same time.



Orville Joseph Rudy

Rudy was under treatment for amnesia at Northwest Community Hospital until late Wednesday, when he was released to Arlington Heights police.

Rudy made no acknowledgement when police informed him of his real name and the charges facing him. He still denied any memory of anything before July 3, police said.

Police said Rudy was "down in the dumps" since his return to the police station. His reactions to his plight and circumstances was generally apathetic, they said.

JACK RYON, hospital spokesman, declined to comment on Rudy's condition or to speculate on whether the amnesia could have been feigned. However, it was learned from reliable sources that continued psychiatric treatment and institutionalization was recommended for Rudy.

Rudy is being held at the Arlington Heights police station awaiting a formal warrant from Ohio. He has waived extradition proceedings and is expected to be transported to Ohio within a day or two, according to the detectives assigned to the case.

RUDY FIRST came to the attention of the police July 8 when he walked into the station contending he had lost his memory. He said he believed his name to be "Joe Neff," because of a receipt for a room at the Arlington Park Towers Hotel made out to that name.

Police held Rudy while preliminary checks were made to establish his identity. It was learned he checked in the hotel on July 3 under the Neff alias. It was later learned he had stayed for two days at a Dolton, Ill., motel under the name Bob Neff prior to coming to Arlington Heights.

Police said Rudy had no car and have been unable to determine how he came to the Chicago area.

Police and hospital personnel said Rudy appeared genuinely concerned about his condition and apparently tried to cooperate in finding his real identity.

Schools don't want it

Hot lunch plan a 'headache'

A representative of two Des Plaines parent groups told the Herald yesterday that the Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 School Board rejected a district-sponsored hot-lunch program because the "administration doesn't want to be bothered with it."

Des Plaines Ald. Richard Ward (8th), of the Devonshire Hot-Lunch Study Committee, said the board considered hot lunch programs "an unnecessary headache — they would like to see it go away."

In a study conducted by his committee, Ward found that nearly 4,000 of the district's 12,000 students eat lunch at school during the winter months.

Although some of the schools have lunch programs sponsored by parent organizations, others make no provisions for children to eat lunch at school.

Ward's committee also studied several hot-lunch plans, including a la carte lines, vending machines and hot and cold containers. Ward made the initial contact with River Trails Dist. 26, which has extra hot lunch facilities and could provide a food service to two Des Plaines schools.

ALTHOUGH GERALD SMILEY, chairman of the school board lunch program committee, said there was no rush on developing a hot-lunch program, Ward said Dist. 59 might not get another chance for a pilot program using Dist. 26 facilities.

"The excess capacity in Dist. 26 kitchens may not be available next year," Ward said. "If we delay the program, we might not get another chance."

Ward said he thought school board members may not be aware that Dist. 26 might not have room for the pilot program next year, but Smiley said board members had taken that fact into consideration.

"We were aware of that when we made our decision. We thought the program would be successful and saw no sense in starting it if it couldn't be continued next year," he said.

Ward disputed several reasons put forth by the board lunch committee for rejecting a district-sponsored lunch program — that parent organizations use profits from lunch programs for school activities and that going home for lunch was part of the educational program.

"Assuming that some parent groups use this as a money making venture, that still is a weak excuse for the district electing not to try a hot lunch program," Ward said. "As for a school policy, with the number of working mothers today, a lunch program is even more important."

The girls prepared for their visit by learning about architectural styles and furniture of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, plants and animals native to Savannah, quilting and using herbs in cooking.

Sponsored by the Northwest Cook County Council the trip included tours of historic Savannah, landmarks from the American Revolution and Civil War and dining at Pirates House, part of whic contains caves dug by pirates.

The girls traveled to Ashville, N. C. and visited the Cherokee Indian Reservation on their return trip through the Smoky Mountains in North Carolina Tennessee.

Price tag switch works–but only once

Two Chicago men were arrested Wednesday after police said they switched price tags on a pair of typewriters at the K-Mart store, 1155 Oakton St.

According to police reports, Randolph Shelton, 21, 1636 Spaulding Ave., switched the tags and left the store after paying $16 for a $176 typewriter.

The theft was discovered by a checkout clerk, however, when Shelton's alleged accomplice, Ronald Osborne, 29, of 2109 Whipple Ave., tried to exchange the same typewriter for the $176 refund.

The clerk alerted a store security guard and the two were turned over to police.

Shelton and Osborne were charged with theft by deception and are being held on $5,000 bond. The two have been scheduled for a July 26 appearance in Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Phase IV: Day II

Area congressman call for 'reduced U.S. spending'

by BOB LAHEY

Both congressmen from the Northwest suburbs found something to praise yesterday in President Nixon's Phase IV economic plan but both reiterated that the only ultimate answer to inflation is reduced government spending.

"The most significant statement in the President's message," said U.S. Rep. Samuel H. Young, R-10th, is that government spending must be held in line, not on a full employment basis, but on a strict income-outgo basis."

Young said the President has asked Congress to hold 1974 spending to $258 billion, $10 billion less than he originally had asked. He expressed cautious optimism that the Congress might try to meet that goal.

"I'm all for that," said U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th. "If there is any freeze that makes sense, I would like to see a total freeze on government spending."

CRANE, WHO IS steadfastly opposed to economic controls, declared generally that the new economic scheme "is more of the same, piled higher and deeper."

However, he added that he was relieved to see government economists "getting out of the idiocy" of freezing food prices without controlling prices of raw agricultural products.

"The only way you are going to get stable food prices is to get through the momentary aberration caused by the original controls, get the supply up and allow prices to stabilize themselves," he said. "Otherwise, you are going to have more farmers drowning baby chicks and slaughtering sows because they can't afford to raise them at the prices they can get."

Young said current signs are for "a very favorable crop year" which could bring relief on soaring feed prices. In the meantime, he added, "I'm afraid the people of this country are just going to have to suffer through it, and we in Congress are going to have to face the challenge" of reducing spending.

Young said, however, that programs now already approved or before the Congress already represent spending about $2 billion over the President's limit of $268 billion.

CRANE SAID there is talk on Capitol Hill of another "idiocy," raising government salaries.

Neither congressman anticipates that Congress will attempt to take authority from the President to deal with economic controls if Phase IV does not work as anticipated.

"Everyone knows it is a real can of worms," said Young, and "no one has all the answers." Most members of Congress, he said, appear content to continue to give the President the authority he needs to attempt to solve the problem.

Crane added, however, that Congress might step into the area of controls in the oil industry and other energy fields in the face of continuing shortages.

"Especially if the Federal Trade Commission charge of manipulation by the petroleum industry to create a tight market is substantiated, Congress will probably take some action," he said.

Labor leaders hit food-price hikes

by LEA TONKIN

The fledgling Phase IV got off to a creaky start this week. Labor leaders criticized food-price increases allowed under the new guidelines and many retailers expressed confusion on the effect the new controls will have on their business in the coming weeks.

"I'm not so damned sure I know what this whole thing is all about," said an anonymous oil company executive in Chicago yesterday, following a hurred meeting with his legal staffers on the new regulations.

THE FOOD-price boosts already underway Wednesday in the wake of the Phase IV announcement were denounced by Paul Jennings, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers. "Higher prices for food and other necessities plus retention of the 5.5 per cent wage guideline can mean only one thing," he said, "further falling behind for working families."

James J. Rademacher, president of the National Association of Letter Carriers, said if food prices increase as anticipated, "the government might find it necessary to issue food stamps to everybody because of high prices." The letter carriers recently negotiated a 6.8 per cent first-year contract agreement with the U.S Postal Service despite the 5.5 per cent ceiling set as a target by the government. Rademacher said he is fearful the new settlement may be rolled back.

Chicago's Patrick Gorman, secretary-treasurer of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen's union, said, "Phase IV is a new summer offensive against the consumer. It will permit most food prices to rise. It will presumably seek to keep some wages stabilized at unrealistic levels that are rapidly losing their buying power in this inflationary era."

WHOLESALE prices for pork, poultry, produce and milk started to climb yesterday in Chicago and other cities. A number of market spokesmen said the full impact of the new retail price markups will begin in full force within the next week.

Wholesale egg prices in New York jumped 4 to 8 cents a dozen. The Associated Milk Producers, Inc., nation's largest dairy industry cooperative, announced price hikes of 10 to 20 per cent in Midwest and southwest states. AMPI members supply 90 per cent of the milk distributed in the Chicago metropolitan area.

Livestock markets throughout Illinois racked up record high prices for live hogs on Wednesday. In Detroit, Mich., Frederick Herrud, Inc. the state's largest pork processor, raised wholesale prices for hogs 10 cents a pound. A company official predicted prices will jump another 10 cents next week.

THE NATIONAL Association of Food Chains predicts a 4 to 5 per cent climb in food prices within the new few weeks.

William Walker, general counsel of the Cost of Living Council, said the Phase IV regulations may mean gasoline price rollbacks in some parts of the country. Under the proposed rules, slated to take effect Aug. 12, retail gasoline sales will be covered by a ceiling price plus the markup which was used for Jan. 10 of this year.

MANY OIL industry executives and gasoline retailers are confused by the rules as they now stand, but expect some changes to come before Aug. 12, says Herbert Hugo, Midwest bureau chief for the Platts Oilgram publication. "The Society of Independent Gasoline Marketers of America (SIGMA) says this would absolutely ruin independents," says Hugo. This is because Jan. 10 prices were below normal price levels due to heavy competition. The pump prices did not move up to adequate levels until later this year, he said.

"So if the object was to fight inflation, the guy who was charging the highest prices on Jan. 10, causing the whole problem, will get the highest prices now," said Hugo. "This doesn't make sense." Major oil companies may be able to pass along higher costs to their customers, but major brand dealers may not be able to do the same.

Oil companies can offer comment until July 31 on the proposed rules, said Hugo. He has heard that the new ceiling base period may be changed to July 12 rather than Jan. 12. "The ray of sunshine is that these rules will probably never be implemented," he said.

A Chicago spokesman for the American Mutual Insurance Alliance said the "heavy restrictions" of Phase IV are still under consideration before further comment can be offered.

Computer cooperative needs miracle

by WANDALYN RICE

One High School Dist. 214 board member has said publicly that Roy Sedrel will have to be a "miracle worker" to make the Northwest Education Cooperative computer work.

Sedrel, a mild man who appears to have no supernatural powers, laughs when he observes that the 214 board member "may be overstating the case."

Miracle worker or not there is little question that Sedrel is the man on the spot as far as eight Northwest suburban school districts are concerned. In mid-June he took over the computer cooporative after the former director was asked to resign and as officials in the eight member school districts were becoming increasingly vocal in their complaints about inadequate service.

NOW SEDREL is operating under a deadline of Jan. 1, 1974. By that time member districts have said the cooperative, which has a budget of about $490,000 for the 1973-74 year, will have to have shaped up or they will find alternative ways to get computer services.

"My goal is by Jan. 1 to have the system running much more smoothly than it has been," Sedrel says. "The next step will be to decide where we want to go in the future."

The cooperative right now is doing payroll for the eight member school districts, financial accounting for High School Dist. 214, is piloting a financial accounting system for elementary schools, is doing registration, scheduling and attendance keeping for elementary and high schools and is doing test scoring for Schaumburg Twp. Dist. 54.

OR MORE accurately, the cooperative is supposed to be doing these things. High School scheduling has been contracted out to Triton College in River Grove and the deadline has been delayed for compiling attendance figures which school districts must file before receiving state aid payments from the state.

The state extended the deadlines for the attendance figures, Sedrel says, and the staff of the cooperative are now on their way to clearing up that backlog. Eventually, the cooperative will do all the scheduling, too, if Sedrel's plan's are fulfilled.

The problems Sedrel has inherited at the computer cooperative can be traced to several things, he says. First of all, when the cooperative's new computer was installed last year, it ran into problems and parts had to be replaced. The hardware problem, he said, "created a ripple effect that continued all year."

In addition, systems that had been operating on the IBM 360 and IBM 1401 computers that had previously been used by cooperative members had to be converted to work on the Xerox computer that had been purchased.

"There was a major conversion problem and there are a couple of systems that still haven't been converted," he said. "We have a couple of programs that are running on a 1401 simulation, which cuts the efficiency of the computer."

THE MAJOR PROBLEM Sedrel sees, however, which has plagued the cooperative is "over-optimism about what could be accomplished in a given time period." Projects have been started that could not have been accomplished in a given time period and, as a result, the cooperative has failed to meet commitments, he says.

Another problem that has faced the new director and the staff since he took over, he says, has been the lack of internal and external operating procedures. He hopes to develop these very quickly.

When he arrived, he says, "there was no documentation for the systems," meaning there were no written instructions for computer operators and no written descriptions of what certain programs were supposed to do.

"They were operating from memory," he says, "and then when we had turnover in the staff we were missing the people who knew what the programs do."

OFFICIALS IN THE school districts also had never been given a procedure for requesting service from the cooperative, he said. "As a result we get literally hundreds of phone calls every day from people who want to know how they should handle something."

For Sedrel, who was formerly head of computer services at Harper College, taking over the cooperative at this point in its history is really a return to something he helped to start.

Before coming to Harper in 1967, Sedrel had been involved with forming computer cooperatives in Iowa. He began talking to business managers from several school districts when he came to the Northwest suburbs. During 1967, 1968 and 1969, he served as part-time director for an informal cooperative which used Harper's facilities.

In 1969, the cooperative was taken over administratively by the Northwest Education Cooperative (NEC) and a full-time director was hired. Eventually, High School Dist. 214 joined and last year, the cooperative bought its computer.

"I told the business managers in 1968 that they would have to think about getting their own equipment in a few years," Sedrel said.

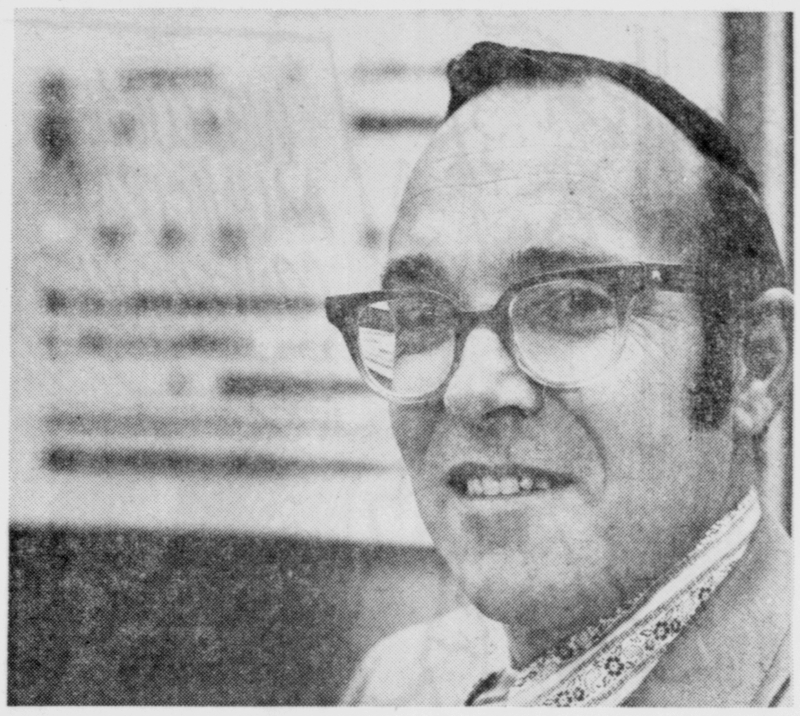
DESPITE THE doubts about the cooperative that have been openly expressed by officials of some of the member districts, Sedrel believes the cooperative can work, and work economically.

"I'm very much commited to the concept of the cooperative," he says. "Experience across the country has shown that it can be done."

But before Sedrel can convince anyone else of his view, he realizes that there are many changes that must be made. He will work on determining exactly what each service costs and on shaping up the service between now and Jan. 1.

In addition, he is going to have to placate administrators who have become disillusioned by the cooperative's failures in the past.

"I'm sure in every district, every administrator wants as much as he can get as quickly as possible," he says. "My responsibility is to tell them what I can realistically give them. I think if the administrators are told realistically what to expect, they will accept it. It's when they're told they can have something and don't get it that they get upset.



THE NEW DIRECTOR of the NEC computer cooperative is Roy Sedrel, former director of the computer services at Harper College. Sedrel says he hopes to have the troubled cooperative back in shape by Jan. 1, 1974.

Local junket spends our cash

For a city that apparently has everything, there's almost a shred of justification for a wingding party for local officials at the annual Illinois Municipal League meeting in Chicago.

Indeed, the city of Rolling Meadows has just about everything: an enormous sales tax return by the fact that Western Electric has its billing headquarters located within the city limits.

This, in turn, has produced such oddities as no city property tax and the presence of four $23,000 Mercedes-Benz garbage trucks within city limits.

Such wealth makes it easy for the city to budget $4,500 to allow 15 city officials and their wives to attend in September the annual Municipal League binge in Chicago.

It even could cost more if other city officials and department heads take advantage of the party. The council voted recently to allocate a $300 blanket expense account for each official and spouse and a $200 allowance for individuals attending the conference.

It's a repeat of last year's Rolling Meadows participation — and it's a pattern that happens frequently when the Municipal League holds its annual convention. It's very impressive to have 15 or 20 of your civic leaders at this gathering, especially when other communities, such as Palatine and Wheeling, either won't send any officials or will require their officials to commute, rather than spending $20 or $30 per night for a hotel room.

But, after all, city officials labor all year and deserve a reward through such an event, reasons Rolling Meadows mayor Roland Meyer. After all, something of benefit might come out of such a meeting:

"If they come across just one thing that may help them on the council floor, it could help the city save huge amounts of money. Or it may be a total washout."

However, Rolling Meadows officials seem to feel it's worth the effort to send the men and women to the conference. And Meyer concedes that Rolling Meadows can afford to attend the conference in force.

To those critics who see everything as negative, it might seem as though the hard-earned income of Rolling Meadows government will be spread around Chicago for meals, drinks, nightclubbing and the other adventures which normally accompany the Municipal League's annual meetings in the Windy City—all for a good time!

But even if it is public money, shouldn't it go to a good cause, such as a brief Chicago fling for the city fathers of Rolling Meadows? Even if it's a bit out of line with what other local communities will spend, there's obviously nothing else in Rolling Meadows which desperately needs the money. Have a good trip, city officials!

Fence post letters to the editor

Buffalo Grove boosted

Edward L. Brousseau quickly became an active resident of Buffalo Grove when he voiced his concern over conditions of Dundee Road — now he needs a citizen's answer to his question, and questions he did not ask concerning the town of Buffalo Grove.

We moved to Buffalo Grove in April, 1968, and there have been many problems. Dundee Road has been a problem ever since that time, but during that time many problems have came up concerning a new and growing community which was less than 4,000 people to what is now over 16,000 people.

Citizens, village officials, state officials have all been working on this problem of the highways and not just Dundee Road. All of us who have been living here for several years know some of the problems is seeing that a highway gets built.

Dundee Road is being built into a four lane highway — a four lane highway anywhere involves time and problems — in an area such as Buffalo Grove which has flood problems — realignment of other roads, etc. — this even takes more time. We of Buffalo Grove who have lived here for longer than three weeks should know that this highway project will take two years or more—we have been warned of the conditions and should drive accordingly. We have been told that we can take other routes to get where we want to go.

Mr. Brousseau, we of Buffalo Grove — if interested — have a place to go and show concern for our community. We've listened to — we don't always get the answer we want — but they are trying to do something — and if possible the right thing for the most people in the community. Mr. Brousseau, back up your words in your letter, take Monday nights and attend the village board meetings, voice your opinions. You can't do it throughout all the meeting — but if you really have something that needs saying — you'll have your chance. You will not always get the answer you want, but sometimes you will — and you'll have your right to disagree because you've participated — and let them know how you feel — work for your government.

Credit should be given just as much as discredit should be given — and I think that we of Buffalo Grove sometimes give more discredit than we do credit to our village government and how they are doing things.

Now I have to give credit to Dan Larson and the village board for trying to do what is best for the most people of Buffalo Grove — and credit for listening to you as a citizen if you agree or disagree with them. Try them — you might just like them.

Shirley H. Kanoles
Buffalo Grove.

'Gratitude' to young motorists

I wish there was some way that I could again thank the young people who so kindly came to my assistance when I was immobilized with a rear tire and a spare blown out.

It was on I-55 about two or three miles south of Divernon, Ill. These young people were crowded in a small compact car with lots of luggge, a young man and two young girls. They stopped at my side when I was about 1/8th of a mile from my car, walking to find a farmhouse or phone to call for help. The older of the girls, perhaps 17 years old, stepped out of the car and offered to take me to a service station so I could get help. She said they were a little crowded but that they would make room for me. When I told her that I would appreciate it very much but did not like to inconvenience them. When I decided to go with them, the young lady said that she would walk back to my car and see whether my wife would want to go along and whether she would be comfortable in the car while waiting. She also was concerned whether I had money enough to get the tires. My wife assured her that I had plenty credit cards and probably would not have any trouble and that she would still remain in the car and wait.

I was not inquisitive enough to get their names but the young man told me that they were from Park Ridge and just coming back from St. Louis. We ended up at a Standard Oil Station and my club membership card took care of the service call and my credit card was good for the tires I needed.

In the excitement of making the tire deal and running back and forth with the service man I missed thanking the girls again and the young fellow would not accept any money so I feel I still owe him my heartfelt gratitude and wish them the best.

Perhaps your circulation to the readers in this area might provide the names of these kind persons.

Dirty 'Dirty Man'

Deliver theatergoers from the "'adult comedy," "The Mind with the Dirty Man," which recently invaded the Arlington Park Theater. My ears are still ringing from the suggestiveness and profanity. Humor at the expense of tastefulness is not my idea of good theater.

The name of the star, Don Knotts, is generally synonymous with comedy; however, it concerns me that the sell-out crowds may indicate their acceptance of this type of entertainment.

In the future, I intend to read the Herald reviews more carefully.

EDITORIAL: Gov. Daniel Walker's veto problem.

Lauds hospital

Because the Herald has publicly disapproved of the stand taken by the board of directors of Northwest Community Hospital regarding abortion-on-demand, I wish to publicly thank that board for preserving the life-saving character of our community hospital. Since hospitals are intended to provide health care and service it hardly falls within their domain to deliberately, on demand, destroy helpless, innocent human lives. If unborn babies are to be killed upon request let it be done in special clinics where respect for the dignity and right to life of each individual human person is considered old-fashioned, unpatriotic, impractical and grossly unintelligent. But let our hospitals retain their role as institutions where human life is considered sacred, where it is never callously and deliberately destroyed.

May Northwest Community Hospital continue to serve the health and life needs of this community and never be swayed by the pseudo-medical opinions of the public. Indeed, it is the role of a politician to respond to public opinion, not the role of a hospital (Mrs. Eugenia Chapman, please note!)

Instead of waiting like the cartoon character in the Herald editorial for abortion-on-demand implementation, I beg any woman with a problem pregnancy — whether the problem is financial, emotional, psychological or whatever — to seek the help she needs and deserves by calling any or all of the following:

—PHD (Preservation of Human Dignity) 359-4919
—Birthright of Chicago 233-0305
—PAPA (Prospective and Adoptive Parents of America) 922-1918

I also urge young people who are concerned about the kind of world in which they will live out their adult lives and raise their children to contact: National Pro-Life Coalition, P. O. Box 114, Northbrook Ill. 60062.

To the board members at Northwest Community Hospital responsible for the pro-life decision I say "Thank you" and "Right on!"

Praises paramedics

To the paramedics of Arlington Heights for their promptness and efficiency in administering immediate care the night of May 10 to my mother, when she became ill upon leaving a restaurant, a sincere thank you. She had been visiting us from New York since Palm Sunday and had planned to stay one more week before this happened. As a result, she spent six weeks in the hospital and two more weeks at our home before she was able to return to New York.

She has asked me to personally thank the paramedics and Nurse Debbie for their kind help.

We are most fortunate having paramedics in our town.

Chappaquiddick still looms big

by BRUCE BIOSSAT

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy may have to find some new way to deal with the 1969 Chappaquiddick incident if he decides to seek the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination. I find no sign that the mere passage of time will make the famous episode go away.

On the contrary, there is evidence that there is a curious, murmuring undercurrent running against Ted even as the standard surface markers indicate he is far and away his party's most popular choice at the moment.

At the time of his well-publicized venture into Alabama to share a platform with paralyzed Gov. George Wallace, I checked the mood of leaders in massive New York. Gazing at 1976, one analyst I respect highly said:

"To the extent people are talking of it, they believe Kennedy is leading — but they are looking for somebody else."

No deep new quest is required to search out the reason. It's Chappaquiddick. And anyone probing Democratic governors at the June national conference in Lake Tahoe could quickly discover that this is a national appraisal.

Furthermore, just as "Watergate" for the Nixon administration is today a generic term covering not just the June 17, 1972, bugging and burglary but a whole range of activities, so "Chappaquiddick" could be on the way to becoming generic for Kennedy.

What is quietly troubling Democratic leaders, beyond the hard reality of Chappaquiddick itself, is a cluster of concerns linked to his personal make-up and problems.

Kennedy's attitude (and his family's) toward the peril of being shot as were two of his brothers is high on this list. Party leaders are understanding of this, but it makes them wonder seriously about the extent of the senator's desire for higher office.

They fret about other matters, some of them possibly off-shoots in part of the inescapable Kennedy worries over assassination. In this realm, rumor runs rampant and facts are few. Rumors do not deserve to be given currency. The only point to make is that some political leaders this year, as in prior times, think Kennedy either deliberately or unconsciously keeps doubts of his fitness alive — as one means of keeping his options open.

Were there none of this, had there been no Chappaquiddick, the race would probably be over right now and Ted Kennedy as good as nominated.

For it is recognized that as a workman he is a far more qualified and confident man at 41 than he was four or eight years ago. He is widely rated a very competent performer.

As a campaigner he simply has no equal. He is a booming, commanding orator. Drawing upon the skills of master writers like Richard Goodwin, Kennedy can deal it out toughly and effectively — as his Alabama speech showed. He is genuinely witty, loves the fun of the travel circuit, has a unique knack for participating well in the necessary hokum of campaigning while letting everybody know that it is hokum.

Yet the sphere of his personal cluster of problems lays partly across the bright orb of his official life. Even as Kennedy demonstrates his skill at using Watergate to unify his party, its reminder of Chappaquiddick undercuts his own prospects.

Canada's priorities

A border is a border is a border, so it once seemed, with the notable exception of the United States-Canadian version.

For 4,000 unfortified miles (actually 5,500, counting Alaska in), it has long been among nations a monument to peaceful continental coexistence and, for individuals, largely a formality.

Unhindered access to each other's domains, involving little more than a courtesy slowing at customs posts, has been taken for granted by citizens of both the United States and Canada.

But times do indeed change. From the Canadian side, the border is becoming much more a legal reality. Tourists from the south are still acceptable — dollar devaluation and balance of payments problems so far notwithstanding.

But Americans intending to make new homes in Canada have been finding to their surprise that it is no longer almost as easy to move to Toronto or Vancouver as to Atlanta or San Diego. Entry requirements have been stiffened. Many unprepared would-be immigrants have been stopped or have experienced lengthy delays at the border.

The issue in Canadian eyes is more than self-interest, it is self-preservation. A problem with U.S. immigrants is that they run heavily to white-color professionals whose skills are not in short supply in an economy where the unemployment rate is generally higher than in the United States. On the contrary, newcomers tend to settle in the larger cities and compete with native Canadians for not-so-numerous jobs.

And land, as Canada's prime asset, should be reserved first for Canadians. Americans, however, in increasing numbers have been buying choice sites for recreation investment. Prices in preferred areas such as Ontario's hill and lake country have been forced up too rapidly, often beyond the reach of Canadians themselves.

It has not yet come to "American Go Home!" And in any case that would be nothing new to Americans after all the experiences of the postwar decades of super-power.

But what makes this situation special is that it is so very close to home.

Business Today

by LEROY POPE

NEW YORK — The telephone interconnect business is growing so much that the big telephone common carrier firms ultimately may get out of equipment manufacture, Claude C. Conti believes.

Conti runs a telephone interconnect firm in the New York metropolitan area called Teltronics Services, Inc. It is one of 750 companies created in this business by the famous Carter phone court decision of 1968 that stopped telephone companies from forbidding interconnection to their lines of privately made phones and equipment.

THAT ENDED the telephone equipment monopoly of the Bell System and a few major independents. Since then, Conti said, sales of privately made telephone equipment have increased at almost 50 per cent annually. Sales of the industry last year were $120 million and should hit twice that this year, he said.

"I think the Bell System eventually will decide its future is in the common carrier communications business and it will spin off or sell Western Electric Co., its huge manufacturing arm," Conti said. He thought General Telephone & Electronics, the largest independent telephone carrier, also eventually would dispose of its telephone manufacturing arm, GTE Automatic Electric Co. of Northlake, Ill.

Conti said that so long as these two companies remain subsidiaries of common carrier telephone firms, they will be hampered by legal and other restrictions in competing with the interconnect equipment marketers.

THE PRICE advantage of the interconnect companies using American, European and Japanese equipment is enormous because they are not required to assess certain charges that common carrier companies must make, he said. Conti figured his company could save even a small business $200,000 over 20 years compared with Bell System charges for the use of similar equipment.

For starters, there is a $4,000 installation fee Bell must charge which Conti does not have to charge, and the monthly service charge for his equipment may be half that of a Bell company. The equipment would cost the user $92,000 and the gross operating saving would be $254,000 and the equipment would be still usable at the end of the 20 years.

So Conti believes that virtually all American business users of telephones will own or rent their phones and switching equipment in a few years as has been the case in some European countries.

Indirect support for Conti's view came from the management consulting firm, Laventhol, Kreckstein, Horwath & Horwath, Inc.

DAVID C. GUSTIN, a former New England Telephone Co. official now in the Boston office of Laventhol Kreckstein, said telephone economies can mean significant savings for many companies. He said the common carrier companies presently are seeking increases in equipment installation and service charges as well as a carrier rate hike. Person-to-person rates have gone up 100 per cent in 10 years.

Therefore, said Gustin, every business should analyze its telephone usage closely to make certain it has the most economical system. All employes also should be trained in the most effective and economical use of the company's telephone lines.

CTA announces no cut in routes

by United Press International

The Chicago Transit Authority announced the end of its current financial crisis and said there will be no suspension of CTA routes.

CTA Board Chairman Milton Pikarsky told a news conference funds made available by state, city and county authorities, particularly Gov. Daniel Walker, permitted the CTA to continue all its routes with only minor cutbacks in service.

"There will be no rapid transit route suspensions," Pikarsky said.

With the improved financial situation, Pikarsky said he was rescinding orders that would have affected 30 bus routes, 3 rapid transit routes, 25 stations and some weekend services.

"Now, we are suspending service to affect only bus routes, 10 rapid transit stations, 6 auxiliary entrances to rapid transit stations, 10 bus routes on weekends and portions or hours of operation of 14 bus routes," Pikarsky said.

Langhorne Bond, director of Illinois Department of Transportation, said the CTA "now has the money to operate well beyond the October session of the legislature."

Managing your family's money

Why do you save? Only to spend it in future

If you think managing your money means saving it, you're ogling only part of the picture. You might easily get the idea that managing and saving your money mean the same thing from a sampling of these columns.

We've discussed the options in shopping three stores instead of one to cut food costs, of buying clothes out of season to drape yourself in fancier finery for fewer dollars, and ideas on how to cut costs or save money in just about every spending category. So, what's the point of all this saving?

To spend!

When you spend less on clothing or buy a used car instead of a new one, the money you save buys something you want. Make no mistakes! I recommend spending or disposing of all your income — but not necessarily at the same rate you earn it.

AND, SPENDING may involve setting up an investment program for retirement income or a long-term investment plan to assure your children a college education. There's little point in simply piling cash into a savings account just to watch the balance mount.

We note various ways to save money because families prefer to cut their costs in different ways — fortunately. Since I seldom deal with families who can afford to do everything they want or to buy anything they choose, I recommend one very simple guide — cut costs for things and services not important to you and spend those savings on things and services that are important.

Suppose you decide that driving a car offers transportation only — a way to get from point A to point B. A car means less to you than something else — possibly acquiring a boat, remodeling your home, keeping a son in college, or the like. Deciding to cut car costs is your first step. But, following through to actually reduce car expenses calls for ideas, facts, and a trade-off of resources — usually time and effort for money.

FOR EXAMPLE, you may decide to drive a car during its third and fourth year instead of its first and second year and save roughly $1,000.

Or, you spend a few minutes and detour a block or two to buy gasoline for 5 cents a gallon less, thus saving about $50 over a year's time depending on your car. And, you'll play the tire-mileage game to buy the tires calculated to deliwer lowest per-mile costs rather than at the lowest price.

All of these ideas will help you save, but they also help you spend. Saving to spend correlates with the one choice-two decision principle: When you choose to spend your cash or credit on some thing or service, you also decide not to spend for something else because the money is gone.

Cutting costs in one or more categories isn't the only route to spending more. You could earn more. Or, you could draw cash from savings. You might spend credit, but that route actually cuts your purchasing power overall.

WHILE THE prospect of earning more attracts considerable interest, look at the timing. Negotiating a raise, whether you manage it or your union or organization arranges it, may run into months.

If you're on commission, you can work harder — or smarter — to boost your income. But, for every dollar you earn, the Feds take a progressively bigger bite. When you save a dollar from your current income, you can spend the whole dollar because it's an after-tax dollar. And, you can spend it now.

Powered by natural gas

Is car of future here—now?

by JACK V. FOX

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — If an automobile were available that cut pollution 84 per cent, ran at half the fuel cost and reduced engine tuneups almost to zero, wouldn't you think there would be a stampede for it?

Well, there is such a car. It has been tested for three years.

Yet, there has been no stampede, not even a mild charge. Only about 5,000 such vehicles are operating in the United States although the system has been on the market for two years.

BUT THE RECENT crunch in gasoline supply, rising prices and the rapidly approaching deadline for stringent pollution standards may supply the impetus to get Dual Fuel Systems, Inc. off and running.

There is actually no new type vehicle. Any product off the assembly line — passenger car, truck or bus — can be converted to a system that powers the engine with compressed natural gas from pressurized tanks.

The Dual Fuel system enables a driver to operate either on CNG or gasoline and to switch from one to the other while the vehicle is in motion. The average driver cannot tell the difference although there is a slight acceleration loss on CNG.

Dual Fuel Systems is a subsidiary of the Pacific Lighting Corp., which is also the parent company of the Southern California Gas Co., the biggest supplier of natural gas in the nation for home and industrial use.

WHY HASN'T there been bigger acceptance of the dual system?

Jim Dunnigan, sales manager at the Monterey Park installation facility, says there are several reasons but the principal block is economic.

It costs $450 to $650 to install the equipment.

Secondly, the system is currently not practical for most private passenger cars because one tank of CNG gives a range of only about 60-65 miles before it must be refilled.

But Dunnigan says the dual system is eminently suitable for fleet operators such as taxicabs, truckers, government vehicles and others with greater tank capacity and their own refueling centers.

DUAL FUEL already is off to a modest start.

Among customers converted to the sytem are taxi companies in Santa Barbara and Venice, Calif., the Santa Clara County government with 100 vehicles, the Mayfair Dairy with 10 trucks, a moving company with 10 vans.

Disneyland operates most of the vehicles at its park with natural gas. The Los Angeles municipal "minibuses" operate on the dual system although the long route buses of the Southern System found CNG did not give sufficient range.

The Southern California Gas Co., operates 1,600 of its vehicles on CNG and the federal General Services Administration has more than 1,000 of its vehicles on the dual system across the country.

THE NATURAL gas equivalent of a gallon of gasoline is now available to fleet operators at eight cents. There is no state or federal tax although California is scheduled to impose a six-cent tax next year.

Dunnigan estimates that a fleet taxicab owner could amortize the cost of conversion within 18 months or 40,000 miles.

Tests of pollution emissions have shown an 83 per cent reduction in carbon monoxide, 72 per cent in hydrocarbons and 97 per cent in oxides of nitrogen when operating on CNG compared with stock gasoline.

Presently there are only two "filling stations" in Southern California where the average motorist can get a CNG refill — one in downtown Los Angeles and the other in Riverside, Calif. Dunnigan says there are plans for 17 more to be opened next year in Southern California at stations already selling gasoline.

There are only a handful — less than a dozen — private individuals now driving Dual Fuel cars.

"But my phone has been ringing off the hook the last few weeks," Dunnigan said. "Maybe this is the start of something big."

Means $200 million to consumers

Swap green stamps for greenbacks: FTC

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a move potentially worth more than $200 million to American consumers, the makers of S&H Green stamps have agreed to start redeeming the stamps for $2 cash per book.

Such cash redemption is currently available in only 20 states, where the amount varies from $1.20 to $2 per book. But under a consent order tentatively accepted by the Federal Trade Commission the redemption starting at 50 cents per 300 stamps will be available nationwide, except for Kansas, where trading stamps are illegal.

Of the 20 states where stamps may now be redeemed for cash, 13 have set the price at $1.20. Those states are Connecticut, Florida, Maine, Massachusetts, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, North Dakota, Ohio, Utah, Vermont and New York. In seven other states — Wyoming, Wisconsin, Washington, Maryland, California, Indiana and South Dakota — the rate is $2.

WYOMING AND Wisconsin do not allow redemption of merchandise for stamps and the state of Washington has a tax on stamps which effectively makes cash redemption the only option.

FTC officials said that while the order is directed only against S & H, they hoped that competition in the market place would force the other trading stamp companies to follow the lead of green stamps which are the dominant force in the field.

An estimated 32 million American families collect trading stamps. S&H stamps alone are distributed by 50,000 retailers from 60,000 outlets. S&H stamp revenue in 1972 amounted to $363 million.

There were 117, 359,000 books of S&H stamps redeemed last year. Had they been turned in for $2 each, they would have been worth $234,718,000.

The order is the result of a lengthy case which went to the supreme Court. The high court ruled that the FTC has wide powers to attack practices which are unfair to consumers.

IN ADDITION to the cash redemption, Sperry & Hutchinson, Inc., New York, was ordered to drop any court injunctions it has obtained during the past 12 years against stamp exchanges — agencies that trade one brand of stamps for another or redeem them for cash. The firm was also ordered not to interfere with the operation of such exchanges.

But Comr. Mary Gardiner Jones, in a lengthy and strongly worded dissent, said the commission should have done more.

"In my judgment this settlement accomplishes virtually nothing for the consumer. It accepts the basic unfairness of forcing trading stamps on consumers and gives them simply an option of getting cash instead of merchandise for these stamps," she said.

Outdoor Getaway

A weekly series for the active family

Choose functional furniture for home away from home

That ole 1930's movie cliche about the natives being "restless tonight" applies to modern day Americans in the 1970's. To look at America's highways and expressways over any weekend is to know what it means to be truly restless.

The city folk are driving to the country, while the country crowd is heading for the city in a steady flow of fast-moving traffic. In the summer, people stream to the beaches, lakes and amusement parks; in the winter, to the ski slopes.

This great migration, no matter how nerve-racking or tiring it someties becomes, is always undertaken in the name of relaxation.

Due to a never-ending network of highways, fast, confortable cars and a shrinking work week, leisure has become more than simply sitting in the backyard. Today it means getting away and taking in a completely different scene.

Right along with the growing popularity of weekend travel goes the growth of the vacation home market. Many people are finding it is less expensive and more inviting to buy a weekend retreat or rent one on a seasonal basis than it is to keep moving from spot to spot, relying on accommodations which may be uncertain.

Before all that leisure can be enjoyed in the new vacation home, however, there may be many hours of clean up, paint up, fix up. It might sound like a big job, but it can be a fun, family project with very rewarding results.

Furniture is important in planning the interior because it must provide sleeping space, an attractive setting and ease of care. The limited space of the second home makes a space-saving sleeping unit like a bunk bed or trundle bed a practical selection. Sleeping two in the space of one twin bed, a bunk saves floor space that is needed for storage pieces.

To stash clothes and linens for weekend junkets, chests and dressers can supplement closet space and also double as buffet servers for the casual cookery of getaway weekends. Topping a couple of chests with extra mirrors helps eliminate bathroom jam-ups, especially if children are in the primping teenage years.

Starting a second home, no matter how humble, can cut deeply into the family budget. To minimize expenses, many families cart their furniture, whether new or hand-me-down, to the vacation site in the family car or a rented trailer, which makes weight just as important as compactness.

Selecting two or three small storage pieces, like a chest, desk and stacking hutch which can be grouped into a single unit, makes the moving and decorating process much easier than working with one or two large unwieldy pieces.

For the family that wants a more formal dining area, a group that also includes a compact dining table should be considered.

To make decorating a vacation home a total family project, children can be assigned special tasks during family worksessions to make them feel they are making a contribution.

In addition, their school work drawings and paintings can be framed and hung on the walls as part of the decor, or a special table or desk can be set up in a corner as a youngster's very own hobby area.

Even though second-home furniture isn't used every day of the the year, it often receives more than normal wear due to the casual atmosphere of a vacation retreat.

Selecting high pressure plastic-topped furniture that resists stains, scratches and burns will keep it looking new and prevent leisure hours from becoming housekeeping hours.

If some extra thought is put into decorating the second home in the first place, it can result in a real relaxation center. If the whole family pitches in to help, it will be a warm and tempting home-away-from-home for each and every member.

For something different this summer, treat your family, your friends and yourself to a fascinating facet of Americana — the golden days of the Circus!

Not far from Chicago, The Circus World Museum, situated on the very grounds where the Ringling Bros. Circus winterquartered for 34 years in Baraboo Wis., brings back to life all the fun and excitement of a time long gone when circuses flourished and thrived.

Each year thousands of vacationers come to the Museum to view and experience all the colorful and entertaining elements that made up the fabulous circuses of yesteryear.

The Circus World Museum is owned by the State Historical Society of Wisconsin and exists for the sole purpose of collecting, preserving, displaying and disseminating circus history.

Open from mid-May through mid-September, the Museum has on its 25 acres, six huge display buildings housing 100 elaborately decorated restored circus wagons, circus railroad cars, animal tents and much more.

There's the mini circus, lead by stately Arabian horses and the Big Top with live performances daily to excite and thrill young and old alike. And of course, the scene would not be complete without an American Steam Calliope churning out cheerful tunes in keeping with the happy-go-lucky atmosphere of the old-time circus.

Each day more than a dozen "happenings reveal to visitors what went on behind the scenes of circuses. Each morning there is the loading and unloading of the circus train with the able assistance of Percheron horses. An animated miniature circus with 3,000 parts wil fascinate viewers while the largest collection of authentic, playable circus musical instruments produce bright and snappy tunes for all to enjoy. Delighting youngsters are the goat and pony carts which will take them on a tour of the circus grounds.

In addition to these many nostalgic attractions, The Circus World Museum has facilities for the serious student of the circus. The Museum furnishes a complete school and research service for those interested in circus history. The circus library and archives serve as a clearing house for all inquiries on the circus.

Activities at The Circus World Museum begin at 9 a.m. daily and keep right on going until closing at 5:30 p.m. Admission price is $2.50; children 5-11, $1 and children under 5 are free.

So if it's joy and laughter you're looking for, take a lighthearted trip back into time — visit the Circus World Museum, a delightful place for Children of All Ages!

Good advice for travelers

Here's some advice for vacationers planning extended trips:

Inform neighbors of your absence so they can be extra alert for suspicious persons. Leave a key with them so your place may be periodically inspected. Direct them to vary the positions of your shades and blinds.

Contact your local police division and inform them of your proposed absence, how long you will be gone, and where you can be reached. Special attention will be given to the premises while you are away.

If you find a door or window has been forced or broken while you were absent do not enter. The criminal may still be inside. Use a neighbor's phone immediately to summon police.

Do not touch anything or clean up if a crime has occured. Preserve the scene until the police can inspect.

Order of Elks votes to integrate

by UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, bowing to legal pressure and "changing social attitudes," yesterday dropped its 105-year-old whites-only membership rule.

The Elks convention in Chicago voted almost 3-to-1 to admit blacks to membership for the first time since the order was founded in 1868.

Robert A. Yothers, a Seattle, Wash., attorney who is the Elks' new grand exalted ruler, said the vote of delegates to the national convention was 2,186 to 773 to remove the white's only clause in the bylaws.

Two previous Elks conventions had refused to make the move.

RECOGNITION OF changing social attitudes and a recent Supreme Court action in Maine," influenced Thursday's decision, Yothers said.

The changing attitude toward black persons "would not alone have influenced the delegates," he conceded.

But he noted that action by the Supreme Court had recently given Maine the right to revoke the licenses, including the liquor licenses, of 15 Elk lodges in that state.

And the Elks' tax-exempt status has been revoked in other states because of their racial policies, he said.

"These considerations all played a part," Yothers said at a news conference.

There are now 1.5 million Elks in the United States. From now on, the only requirements for membership are that applicant be male, over 21, and a non-Communist.

Pressure on Nixon to cut Europe force

by STEWART H. HENSLEY

WASHINGTON—President Nixon, a man sorely beset on many fronts, will emerge from the hospital to find his domestic troubles continue to weaken his hand in dealing with foreign affairs.

The brief period of euphoria generated by the rheteric of last month's summit conference with Soviet leader Leonid I. Breshnev has dissipated to a considerable extent. While the general assumption is that long-term prospects for improved relations remain good, there appear to be some stormy passages ahead for the President.

It has become increasingly difficult for Nixon's aides to convince the Congress and the American public of the necessity to keep 310,000 U.S. troops in Europe almost 30 years after World War II. The cumulative bill for this project, even after allowing for offset contributions by the West Germans and other NATO allies, is about $17 billion.

WITH THE DOLLAR sinking on world money markets, an adverse balance of international payments, and inflation gaining dangerous momentum at home, there is growing pressure here to reduce this costly American presence in Europe.

Nixon and top advisers are making a strenuous effort to persuade Congress that any significant cut in these forces would be dangerous — perhaps fatal. Their contention is that if Washington undertakes unilateral reductions, Nixon will have no leverage in negotiations this fall to force Soviet troop reductions in Central Europe.

The same logic is used to justify continued research and production of nuclear weapons. The idea is that the United States must negotiate from a position of great strength if it hopes to secure any arms limitation agreement with Moscow.

The administration's arguments appear to have merit — if you accept the premise that Russia's primary aim is to loosen the ties that bind the NATO allies and eventually dominate Western Europe.

ON THE OTHER HAND, if you believe the Kremlin's actions since May, 1972, indicate a sincere desire to eliminate tensions in order to secure Western technical knowhow, equipment and credits, then the administration warning loses some of its effectiveness.

Senate Majority leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., who has repeatedly offered resolutions to drastically cut American military strength in Europe, is expected to come up later this year with a firm proposal for phased withdrawal.

Unlike previous years, Mansfield finds considerable sentiment on the other side of the Capitol in the House of Representatives for his ideas.

Chicago-area population growth predictions decline

Population in the Chicago area will increase nearly 50 per cent in 50 years — a slower growth rate than previously predicted by the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission.

New NIPC totals released yesterday predict an area-wide population of 11.5 million persons by 2020. Estimated 1970 population was 7.5 million.

The 21st Century population growth will mean more highways, increased park land, additional sewage plants and other public projects, NIPC assistant research director Frank Beal said after the commission's quarterly meeting in Chicago.

But, the commission may approve fewer government-funded projects in future years because of the reduced growth rate, said Beal, an employe of the American Society of Planning Officials.

NIPC IS a counselor for planning in the eight-county Chicago metropolitan area and reviewer of all applications seeking federal project funding.

The population totals, which were referred to NIPC's planning committee for study, will determine need for increased public projects like highway construction.

The 11.5 million prediction is between 750,000 and 1 million persons less than previous growth figure.

"Problems will be lessened if there are fewer people around," Beal said. Driving to the meeting, "I couldn't help thinking that if there weren't more people, I wouldn't be in this traffic jam."

The population prediction was reduced, Beal said, because:

- The U.S. Supreme Court "is unlikely to change its position on abortion;"
- "There is a wider use of birth control;"
- The median age for marriage is increasing;"
- The "quality of family life . . . the cost of living and education" is of increased concern.

Most growth in the area is predicted in the 1970s and 1980s. Young persons will continue to move here and retired persons will move out because "Chicago has always been a place to find work. That will continue. This is not a place to retire," Beal said.

THE REPORT is based on three assumptions about fertility, mortality and migration and a computer formula from the 1970 census that uses age, sex and race totals.

The committee members assumed a fertility rate of 2.1 children born to the average woman in her lifetime, which would lead to zero population growth in 70 years. The fertility rate of white women was expected to increase gradually from the 1972 estimated of 1.87 and the rate of nonwhite women was expected to decrease from the 1972 level of 2.79 with the two rates converging in the year 2000.

Another assumption was that there would be a light increase in life expectancy with the mortality rates of all races becoming equal by the turn of the century.

The committee also assumed that a constant number of white residents would leave the region. Migration into the area by other races was expected to decline by 20 per cent each decade.

"THERE IS A growing reaction to growth," Larry Christmas, NIPC assistant research director, said "We're depleting our resources. Growth does not always mean more money for the treasury. There's a possibil racial issue — people saying 'we've made it, so let's keep everyone else out.' "

Christmas said people have a "general uneasiness . . . things are happening so fast . . . so rapidly, let's go easy . . . hold the status quo."

The total forecast will be broken down by township and smaller areas in coming months, with the participation of local elected officials and interested citizens. The small area forecasts will be basis of long range regional planning, and will be consulted when federal matching grants are sought for new highways, park land, sewage plants, and other public investments for future growth.

The forecast shows two periods of decreasing school enrollment between periods of increasing enrollment, as the "baby boom" bulges in the population curve become older. The first bulge will increase the labor force 17 per cent in the current decade, and 11 per cent in the 1980s. In subsequent decades, the labor supply will increase less and less. Approximately the same number of households will be formed each year as in the 1960s, with a corresponding steady demand for new residential construction.

The population forecast is compatible with an economic forecast of 1 million more jobs by the turn of the century — full employment for the region's people and up nearly 30 per cent from the current 3.5 million jobs.

The Lighter Side...by Dick West

Platitudes may become 'inoperative'

WASHINGTON — One of the bad things about the current economic situation is that some of America's best-loved platitudes are becoming inoperative.

The public at large is not as yet terribly alarmed by this development. But to someone like Fred Chestnut, executive director of an organization calling itself Friends of the Cliche, the undermining of a platitude is a source of great concern.

"What you must realize is that 68 per cent of all oral communication is composed of bromides," Chestnut said in seeking to enlist me in his cause.

"ANYTIME A platitude that has achieved a viable and ongoing place in the language loses its meaning the ability of people to communicate with each other is impaired.

"And if there is anything we don't need at this point in time, it is a widening of the communication gap."

I asked Chestnut whether there had been any recent additions to the endangered cliche list.

"THERE CERTAINLY HAS," he replied. "You yourself have noted that the phrase 'sound as a dollar,' which is one of America's all-time favorite commonplaces, now has a hollow ring.

"It definitely is in danger of being driven into oblivion by currency devaluations and international money speculators.

"And much the same thing is happening to 'chickenfeed.' " "Chickenfeed!" I exclaimed. "You mean like when you want to describe a sum of money as piddling or paltry you say 'it's' only chickenfeed?' "

"Exactly," Chestnut said. "If something isn't done soon that cliche will become extinct, and we will be losing one of the real workhorses of the English language."

IN SUPPORT OF his warning, he cited congressional testimony this week that the prices of feed grains used in the poultry industry had gone up about 300 per cent.

Soybean meal, for example, which is one of the main ingredients in the average hen's diet, now costs about $400 a ton, compared with $100 a year ago.

"You certainly can't describe anything that costs $400 a ton as chickenfeed," Chestnut pointed out.

I TOLD CHESTNUT I, too, would hate to see these old semantic standbys rendered obsolete. Therefore I thought his cliche conservation campaign merited public support.

But I didn't consider it crucial to communication because America still had a superabundance of platitudes.

"If you can't call a meager amount chickenfeed any longer, then call it peanuts," I said. "Apparently you haven't bought any peanuts lately," Chestnut sighed.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

North's two-club response was based somewhat on his three 10-spots. South's three-club rebid was normal and now North felt he had to try three hearts. South carried on to what might well have been a successful game contract.

Unfortunately for North and South, the cards lay very badly for them and in addition West happened to be Mike Gottlieb.

Mike, a member of the Four Aces that dominated bridge in the 1930s, was famous for his inferential doubles.

He came up with one this time and proceeded to open the seven of clubs. Obviously, East had few clubs and several trumps.

Easts ruffed and returned a spade. West's king lost to Mike's ace and back came the six of clubs. East ruffed again and proceeded to lead a second spade to Mike's queen.

Back came the deuce of clubs. East ruffed for the third time and shifted to a diamond.

South had a chance to be a real loser. He could have played low whereupon Mike would have given his partner a fourth club ruff. But South wasn't going for any 1400. He went up with his diamond ace; led a trump and got out for a mere 1100.

Scientists probe Shroud of Turin

by FREDERICK M. WINSHIP

PORT CHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — The Shroud venerated by Roman Catholics for 600 years as the burial cloth of Jesus will be subjected to science's most modern investigative techniques in an effort to solve the mystery of the image of a crucified man on the 14-foot linen strip.

Former King Humberto II of Italy, owner of the relic, has given permission for the first scientific examination of the shroud in 42 years. It is expected to begin next fall at the Cathedral of Turin where the shroud is kept, according to the Rev. Peter M. Rinaldi. Father Rinaldi is vice president of the 6,000-member Holy Shroud Guild in the United States and author of a recent book on the shroud.

The Guild, which is headquartered at Corpus Christi Church in Port Chester, is raising funds by selling pictures of the face on the shroud to pay for such expensive processes as holography, a lensless photographic technique using laster beams. In addition to holography, Catholic authorities in Turin are considering spectroscopy, the Carbon 14 test, infrared or ultra violet photography, and neutron activation analysis.

IT WAS ESTABLISHED in 1931 that the image is not a painting, but the Vatican has taken the position that it is not within the church's doctrinal definition to declare the authenticity of any relic. Despite this, several Popes have openly revered the shroud and Pius XI dedicafed a prayer to it.

"There is no way to prove the shroud authentic beyond a shadow of a doubt," Father Rinaldi said. "What we're doing is challenging modern sciences to prove it is a fraud. The Vatican will not support authentification and is leaving it to the public for an objective evaluation which touches almost every field of science."

Father Rinaldi said an international commission will carry out the examination. The guild is pressing Turin to use three-dimensional holography because it has the ability to deblur optical images, a process developed by Dr. George W. Stroke of the State University of New York at Stony Brook.

THE GUILD hopes that this will provide a distinct picture of the faint, rust-colored human imprint which permeates the linen. There is even a possibility that holography will provide a three dimensional concept of the man-in-the-shroud.

Spectroscopy would establish whether stains on the shroud are traces of human blood. Carbon 14 would establish the approximate age of the linen, which already has been identified as a Middle Eastern weave and pattern of the first to third centuries A.D. Neutron evaluation would identify the fibers and make it possible to pinpoint where they were grown.

FATHER RINALDI said there is no assurance that science can identify the means by which the frontal and dorsal image of a 5-foot-11-inch man of majestic, bearded countenance was ingrained in the cloth. A favorite theory is that powdered aloes, which were spread on Christ's shroud according to the Bible, reacted chemically to vapors from the body. Those who consider the image a miracle describe it as a quasiphotograph of Christ produced by the radiance of the Resurrection.

"I beleive the truth lies in nature," said the priest, who viewed the shroud 1933, when it was last on public display. "There were images of atomic bomb victims blasted into the walls of Hiroshima. Can science explain a possible radiation said the priest, who viewed the shroud in was removed from Christ's body without sticking when the blood had dried?"

TESTIMONY OF medical authorities who have examined the shroud strongly supports superficial evidence that it once covered the corpse of a man with wounds on his hands, feet and side, and traces of 125 lash strokes. All anatomical details of the nude image are correct as they would be in rigor mortis and consistent with death while hanging by the arms. Blood-colored specks and trickles on the front and back of the head print could have been caused by thorn punctures.

Free Hearing Tests Set For Senior Citizens

Electronic hearing tests will be given at Beltone Hearing Aid Service offices on Monday and Tuesday.

Factory-trained hearing aid specialists will be at all of the offices listed below to perform the tests.

Anyone who has trouble hearing or understanding is welcome to have a test using the latest electronic equipment to determine his or her particular loss. Diagrams showing how the ear works and some of the causes of hearing loss will be available.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out about the latest methods of hearing correction.

The hearing test will be given Monday and Tuesday. If you can't get there on Monday or Tuesday, call one of the numbers below and arrange for an appointment at another time. Shut-in service is available in your home. Just phone the Beltone Hearing Aid Service nearest to you.

DuBrow on TV . . . by Rick DuBrow

An insider's look at the 'who's who' of video world

HOLLYWOOD — Instant television impressions:

• William Conrad (star of the Cannon" series): Books, a drink, poker, sportsman, good loser, gracious winner.

• Bob Newhart: Quiet on the outside, but could dispatch a room full of hecklers forthwith.

• Carol Burnett: What you see is what she is.

• Raymond Burr: Knows where the Maltese Falcon is.

• "The Brady Bunch": There goes the neighborhood.

• Amanda Blake (of "Gunsmoke"): Modern-day Lillian Russell.

• Julie Andrews: Could pass as the headmistress of a society dancing school for children.

• Mary Tyler Moore: Pleasant, professional and formidable.

• Efrem Zimbalist Jr.: Suave, knowledgeable performer. Might have been a big movie star 38 years ago when debonair, well-mannered gentlemen were in vogue as leading men.

Florence Henderson

Sally Struthers: (of "All in the Family"): Budding sexpot.

• Hope Lange: (of the Dick Van Dyke Show): A real dish.

• Lorne Greene: If anyone remakes the Andy Hardy movies, go no farther for the father, Judge Hardy.

Ed McMahon: Perfect casting for a labor leader.

• Dick Van Dyke: Straight as an arrow.

• Edwin Newman: Superb interviewer, brilliant newsman.

• Robert Young: He may be "Marcus Welby, M.D.," but the "Father Knows Best" image is still there.

• Tony Randall: A craftsman at his acting art. One of the most individual performers around. A producer can't say: "Find me another Tony Randall." There aren't any.

• Lucille Ball: Creates visions of an orange sherbet sundae.

• Johnny Carson: Much better-looking now than when he took over the "Tonight" show a decade ago. Triumphs over his wardrobe.

• "Hawaii Five-O": B-movies with the promise of a real island flavor that is rarely delivered.

• Tom Smothers: Instinctive comedy genius.

• Milton Berle: Still the most brilliant and deadly ad-libber in standup comedy.

• Shecky Greene: Topnotch impression on the "Tonight" show. Rare mixture of inventive humor, popular appeal, natural warmth and sense of perspective.

• Dorothy Lamour: Lagoons, pearl-diving, native drums, quiet strumming of ukelele.

England sends top shows to America

LONDON (UPI) — It is a curious fact that some of the more ambitious television that reaches American screens starts its life in the quiet of morning in an office near London's Hyde Park.

Sir Lew Grade is an early riser because he finds his mind slips into high gear while most people are still yawning at the new day. His limousine drops him at the Associated Television (ATV) building usually at 7 a.m. sharp.

And it is while he is brewing coffee in the silver pot on his desk that he mulls over the programs that, among other things, earned him eight U.S. Emmys this year — seven for the "Julie Andrews Hour" and the other for "Long Day's Journey Into Night."

SIR LEW'S television activities also won him a knighthood in recognition of the tens of millions of dollars his programs have earned to help the British balance of trade. This year, with Britain in the Common Market, Sir Lew sees the possibility of even greater opportunities and he has already sold a number of important shows to the United States.

As a theatrical agent, Sir Lew made the London Palladium so famous a vaudeville theatre that Americans felt no career was complete without headlining there. He took this trans-Atlantic know-how with him when he became head of ATV. And now, with Britain in the Common Market, he is aiming at Europe and the United States as well as his homeland.

CHATTING IN his office over coffee and biscuits one early morning, Sir Lew ticked off his accomplishments for the coming seasons.

"We've recorded the Royal Shakespeare Company production of Antony anl Cleopatra," he said, "and we're soon recording Lord Laurence and Lady Olivier in The Merchant of Venice with the players of the National Theatre Company. Both of these have been sold to ABC-TV.

"ABC-TV has also signed for six hours of television starring Julie Andrews. This is a remarkable deal in that every show will have a different format, style, presentation and length. ABC-TV, of course, also bought our The Strauss Family.

"NBC-TV has purchased The Zoo Gang, a series based on the 1973 adventure of four wartime Resistance Fighters with Barry Morse of the Fugitive, Brian Keith, Lili Palmer and John Mills as stars. Paul and Linda McCartney are writing and performing the music."

Sir Lew said he hadn't forgotten CBS-TV. That network has purchased his series of six one-hour shows called The Law Giver with Burt Lancaster as Moses. And there is, he says, American interest in his $6,250,000 co-production with Italian television of "The Life of William Shakespeare" as well as in a series tentatively titled "The Origin of the Mafia."

The Doctor Says...by Dr. Lawrence Lamb

Lung cancer–a preventable disease

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am writing you today concerning my mother who is 82 years old. Until recently she was in perfect health. Now she has developed heart trouble, diabetes and high blood pressure. The last physical examination revealed that she now has an enlarged spleen and was anemic. Iron pills were prescribed for this.

What is the spleen? The doctor did not prescribe medicine for this condition, nor did he recommend surgery. He said that the enlarged spleen was not dangerous and recommended that she watch her diet. How serious is this condition?

Dear Reader — The spleen is a very small organ that lies just under the diaphragm at the edge of the ribs on the left side. It's just above the left kidney. Normally it's a small organ, less than half the size of your hand. It's like a large lymph gland. Many of the old blood cells are destroyed within the spleen. All of it's functions are not clear. It may enlarge when a person has a fever or if there is heart failure which may be the situation with your mother. It's importance depends entirely on what's causing it. It can be a factor in some types of anemia and low white blood cell counts.

I presume that the type and degree of anemia that your mother has was such that your doctor felt satisfied that it was unrelated to the enlargement of the spleen. He may also have felt that the enlargement of the spleen was minimal and more likely related to her heart problems. There isn't any way I can give you a definite answer. The only thing you can do is to depend on the doctor's judgment. After all he knows how big the spleen is and how severe the anemia is as well as the rest of the problem, including the severity of the heart disease.

Dear Dr. Lamb — What is a spot on the lung? What causes it? Is it dangerous? We have heard so much about it recently via John Wayne and Johnny Bench on television. One said cancer, the other said it had to be analyzed to determine what caused it. Is it necessary to have an operation if it is determined that there is a spot on the lung?

Dear Reader — A spot on the lung is just a spot on the lung until a better diagnosis is made. Sometimes a spot on the lung represents an old infection of one of the fungus diseases of the lung such as histaplasmosis or coccidioidomycosis. These fungus diseases may leave a spot on the lung after the inflammation is over and the spot may have no important significance. On the other hand, a spot on the lungs may well be cancer. There are differences in the x-ray characteristics between some spots that enable a doctor to have a pretty good idea if they are cancer or not, but if there's any question the only way the problem can be solved is by surgical removal of the area and examination. Certainly if a spot is found and there's any question about it, the quicker surgery is achieved the better likelihood of a successful outcome.

Lung cancer is very common in American men. Ninety per cent of all men who have lung cancer smoke cigarettes. It is probably an example of a preventable disease. It may sound strange to say that you can prevent cancer but there are a number of cancers which can be prevented and the large number of lung cancers appears to be a good example. Merely by avoiding smoking cigarettes the incidence of lung cancer can be sharply reduced.

Phantom limb pain remains unexplained in amputees

by ELDON BARRETT

SEATTLE, Wash. — The "phantom-limb" phenomena is a very real thing, although the leg or arm the patient "feels" has been amputated.

Dr. Ronald Melzach, a professor of psychology at McGill University in Montreal, explains that persons with phantom limbs continue to feel pain but physicians do not yet know the reasons why.

It is not uncommon for a woman with an amputated hand to reach for a glass of water with the hand that is no longer there, or for a veteran with an amputated leg to get out of bed and expect to take steps.

ABOUT 10 PER CENT of persons with amputations suffer from what physicians call phantom limb pain. The subject was discussed at length at an international symposium here recently.

"Phantom limb pain is characteristically very persistent, lasting for decades in some patients," Melzack said. "We have to begin looking for mechanisms in the nervous system which may cause this pain to continue for so many years."

He said such pain is more likely to occur if a patient has had pain in the arm or leg before it was amputated.

The fact that pain is so long lasting and occurs most often in persons who have pain in a limb later amputated suggests that some mechanism in the nervous sytem has a memory for pain.

ANOTHER PROBLEM associated with phantom limb pain is the fact that stimulation of areas far from the stump can evoke pain in the phantom limb. For example, a girl who lost her arm in a bicycle accident and had phantom limb pain said the pain was intensified when pressure was applied to the opposite shoulder.

Melzack said there were two opposing methods for treating phantom limb pain. One was to reduce pain by blocking it with local injections of an anesthetic into the stump. The second method is to intensify the patient's pain at the site of the amputation by pounding the stump with a rubber mallet or touching it with an electrical charge.

In the first method, the relief often lasts for many days while the actual anesthetic is dissipated within the body in a few hours. The second method intensifies the pain for about 10 minutes but then the phantom pain disappears, often not returning for many months.

Shelby Lyman on Chess

Robert Byrne looks like a serious U.S. challenger

How the chessmen move

THE PAWN moves only forward one space, with the exception of its first move when it has the option of moving two spaces forward. It captures one square diagonally forward.

THE KNIGHT moves and captures in the form of a capital L — two spaces in either a horizontal or vertical direction and one space to the right or left. It is the only piece permitted to jump over other men.

THE QUEEN, the most powerful piece on the board, moves and captures diagonally, and horizontally and vertically, along the ranks and files.

THE ROOK (occasionally called the castle) moves and captures horizontally and vertically, along the ranks and files.

THE BISHOP moves and captures diagonally.

THE KING moves and captures one square at a time in any direction.

No one has doubted that Bobby Fischer's ascendancy to the world championship would initiate some kind of renaissance in American chess. But few expected that the lone American participant, 45-year-old Robert Byrne, would qualify for next year's challenge matches by taking one of the top three places in the 18-man Leningrad Interzonal. Pressing the leaders, Karpov and Korchnoi, all the way, Byrne played the best chess of his career.

He will join Karpov, Korchnoi, Petrosian, Spassky and three others selected in a second interzonal tournament (held next month in Brazil) in a series of matches to determine the challenger to Fischer.

In keeping with the elan of his play at Leningrad, Byrne said after the tournament that he would like to play Spassky. Boris, who recently announced himself that he wished to play a rematch with Fischer in 1975, may be wondering, at this point, whether 63-year-old Sammy Reshevsky, who will be representing the United States in Brazil, will also qualify and add another American obstacle to the ex-champion's hoped-for match with Fischer.

From among Byrne's many fine efforts in the Interzonal, I have selected crucial positions from two games: one in which he beat the Russian Mark Taimanov, and another in which he lost to Taimanov's countryman, Victor Korchnoi. The latter game was the only loss by Byrne in Leningrad. It demonstrates the superb play needed by Korchnoi to beat him.

Diagram 1

The following position occurred after Taimanov (black) grabbed Byrne's king pawn with his rook and then retreated his knight (then at QN5) to QB3 when Byrne chased it with P-QB3. Byrne has the surprise move 26, N-QB5. If Taimanov had moved his attacked rook, he would have lost the QRP and rook (at N1) for the white knight. Taimanov played instead 26 . . . PxN and was then forced to play 27 . . . QxR after Byrne's 27. R-Q7, which threatened checkmate (after QxP check) as well as the queen. With the advantage of queen for knight and rook, Byrne was able to win the game.

Diagram 2

In our next position, Korchnoi engineers a surprising breakthrough with 21. NxBP check. After NxN(21) by Byrne, 22. N-N5 is sufficient to win another pawn and regain the sacrificed piece in a complicated variation. Play continued to move 28, when Byrne resigned. He was two pawns behind and faced unstoppable threats against his king. The game moves were as follows: 22 . . . B-Q2; 23. Q-R6, Q-K2; 24. B-B5, Q-N2; 25. QxB4 check, K-R1; 26. N-B7 check, K-N1; 27. NxP check, K-R1; 28. BxB, Resigns.

Work out as many of the alternative possibilities as you can in the positions that occurred after 21. NxP check. Next week we'll present several of those variations in detail as well as the complete score of the game.

Buffalo Grove enjoys highest (4th) local seed

Area's top softball teams in Des Plaines for state tourney

by MIKE KLEIN

Illinois' best softball players will Saturday for the two-day State 16-gather in Des Plaines beginning inch Softball Tournament.

For the eighth consecutive year, the Des Plaines Park District will host this 40-team single-elimination tournament. It's sponsored by the Illinois Park and Recreation Society.

Preliminary games will be played at Rand, South and West Parks with all finals on Sunday at Rand. A complete schedule appears on page 7.

South Stickney Turners Tap, last year's state champs, are back in the field and seeded No. 1. Next three seeds are the Evanston Bobcats. The Cabin of Berwyn (formerly So-Bees) and Buffalo Grove Bruins.

Many softball people pick the Bobcats to win. They're the defending world champions, current leaders of the Kelly League in south Chicago and winners of the tough 16-team Ivanhoe Tournament last weekend.

The Cabin, which still plays in some leagues as So-Bees, has made numerous appearances in the world tournament.

Buffalo Grove's Bruins have compiled a 39-4 record this year, two of those losses to Danans (10-8 and 6-5), a favorite in the Wisconsin tournament.

The Bruins beat South Stickney, 16-5, in the Ivanhoe Tournament. They were 17-13 losers to Apps Tap of Chicago, a combination of the Strikers and Bobcats. Although not entered in the State Tournament, the Strikers have consistently been among Illinois' top clubs and lost,

Irving Lake coach poised; All-Stars aim for 2nd title

by TOM CARKEEK

A lot of coaches might be hesitant, even a little awestruck, about defending a state baseball title.

But not Lou Bocci, who heads the Irving Lake Babe Ruth League all-star team. Bocci's club, composed of 16-to-18 year olds from Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Streamwood and Hanover Park, captured the Babe Ruth state title last summer and now is among the five finalists for this year's championship.

"We're a tougher team this year than we were last year," Bocci said. "If we lose it, we'll have to give it away. No one will take it from us. It'll take a bad break or something we can't control, like an umpire or something. With the way our guys are playing, they're confident enough to know that no one will beat us."

Bocci might be accused of comceit, or at least of overzealousness. But the record — the facts — bear him out. After winning the state Babe Ruth title in only its second year of existence, Irving Lake breezed through three district playoff games and into the state finals by a combined score of 30-3. Irving Lake massacred Lombard 18-0 before stomping LaGrange 6-1 and Brookfield 6-2.

Lou Bocci

Sports Editor Bob Frisk is on vacation this month. His "Kickin' It Around" column will resume upon his return.

State finals directions

Here are directions to the Chicago Heights Athletic Association Park, the site of the Babe Ruth Senior Division state baseball playoffs this weekend.

Take the Tri-State Tollway south and exit at Halsted St. Go south on Halsted (Alternate 1) for about five miles. Then the road forks, Halsted continuing straight ahead and Alternate 1 going off to the right. Follow Alternate 1 past Bloom High School to 12th St. The park is at Alternate 1 and 12th St.

This morning they will take on the Champaign-Urbana all-stars in the first round of the state tournament. The site is the Chicago Heights Athletic Association Park, 12th St. and Chicago Rd., Chicago Heights. Irving Lake's first game is slated for 10 a.m.

If the locals win, they will face the Chicago district winner at 3 p.m. If they lose, they won't play until 5:30 p.m. The tourney will continue through Sunday, although future times and pairings have yet to be decided. Other teams in the meet are Oak Lawn and Chicago Heights.

Bocci feels his club is coming into the state finals on the heels of a sterling district performance that might have belied Irving Lake's actual strength. While some observers might think the quality of the district competition must have been less than formidable for a team to be able to run up the scores Irving Lake did, Bocci only answers that his team is indeed that good.

"Lombard was a new team and had a late start," Bocci admitted, "but Brookfield and LaGrange were real good ball clubs. It wasn't so much that those teams were bad as it was that our kids were just so hot.

"I don't feel any additional pressure because we're the defending state champions," he added. "The way my kids looked out there at the districts — my God, you'd think they could have beaten the Yankees. In infield practice those guys were so high they were rifling the ball around and just moving like pros. And then they came to bat and the first three guys up scored three runs."

Bocci has said before that the key to the tournament would be pitching. And he readily points out that pitching is his team's most vulnerable spot.

"Last year we had five starting pitchers and this year we've only got four," he said. Ken Gast, Johnny Harris, Doug Yarbrough and Ken Hubbard comprise the Irving Lake pitching staff, although third baseman Randy Anderson and catcher Jeff Chiarugi can be called upon in a pinch.

"Gast and Harris are my top two pitchers," Bocci said, "but Yarbrough (at Elgin) and Hubbard (at Conant) were the top pitchers on their high school staffs. They know how to pitch.

"Anyway, our hitting has been so good that it takes some pressure off the pitchers. The first five guys have been hitting the ball real well and the last four have been mostly getting on base by drawing walks and getting hit by pitches. But even some of these four have begun to get wood on the ball. I'll tell you, (Jim) Juliano, our shortstop, has been getting robbed lately. Juliano is 6-foot-2 and has more range than any shortstop I've ever seen for his age. In his age group, he's the best shortstop in the state — Babe Ruth, Legion Ball, anything."

Irving Lake met its first round opponent, Champaign-Urbana, in the state championship tournament last year and won 4-3. Bocci expects rugged competition once again.

"They had a big, solid club last year and they've got one again this year," Bocci said. "The other teams I anticipate will be tough too, although you never know what to expect from a Chicago team."

Bocci said he probably will stick with the lineup he used in the districts, which will read as follows:

Greg Kindred RF, Jeff Ironside 3B, Keith Stellman 1B, Jeff Chiarugi, C, Tray Clark LF, Juliano SS, Mike Rossman CF, Jim Brown 2 B, and Gast pitching the first game. Harris will pitch the other Friday game with Yarbrough and Hubbard ready for Saturday action.

Even with the easy district win and last year's state championship already behind his club, Bocci says the pressure will be no problem.

"Everybody's been coming through in the clutch," he said. "Ironside is only 16 years old and I was a little worried about him, but he goes up there (in the districts) with a 3-2 count, two out and the bases loaded, fouls off a couple and then draws the walk. He didn't go after a bad pitch because he was nervous. And Steelman and Chiarugi have been doing the same thing.

"Heck, I've got Sam Aiello sitting on the bench, and he's a great ballplayer. But I believe that with this team, it's only a matter of time. If one guy doesn't do it, the next guy will."

Bocci's theory is certain to endure a brutal test in the state championships this weekend, but if it holds up, it's off to the regional at Mattoon, Ill., next weekend.

AN ALL-STAR AGAIN. Second baseman Jim Brown is on an exclusive team again. Playing for the Irving Lake All-Stars, he helped with both the bat and glove as they won the District V championship last weekend and qualified for the state tourney this weekend. Brown was earlier named to the Herald All-Area team and the Mid-Suburban League all-conference team.

Wheeling's John Theriault waits for Arlington's George Vukovich at second base in Wednesday's legion game...

Romes will pilot Legion All-Stars

by TOM CARKEEK

Park Ridge and Mount Prospect dominated the annual American Legion Ninth District all-star baseball selections, each placing six men on the 22-man squad.

The all-stars will tangle with the league-leading Arlington Heights, whose magic number to clinch the league title stands at just one. The annual game is slated for 2 p.m. Sunday at Arlington's Recreation Park, Miner and Douglas Sts., Arlington Heights.

Joining the dozen Park Ridge and Mount Prospect players on the all-star roster will be four each from Wheeling and Logan Square and two from Norwood Park.

Jerry Romes of Park Ridge, whose club played against the all-stars last year, has been designated the head coach for this summer's team. Romes will be assisted by Bob Grybash of Wheeling and Larry Nomellini of Logan Square. Lloyd Meyer, of course, will manage Arlington.

Park Ridge concentrated its all-star picks in the infield, getting three infielders named to the honor squad. Post 247 and Mount Prospect each had two outfielders selected. Prospect was the only ballclub to have two of its pitchers named. Every other team had one hurler chosen.

Two Wheeling infielders were picked, while Logan Square divided its four selectees evenly among the infield, outfield and two battery positions.

The 1973 Ninth District all-stars, according to team:

Park Ridge — Jerry Jones (1B), Dan Lowy (2B), Charlie Fahrner (3B), Bob Lloyd (OF), Jim Lyons (OF), and Jay Liggett (P).

Mount Prospect — Loren Crites (2B), Dale Schoenbeck C), Bob Chen (OF), Greg Fink (OF), Larry Monroe (P), and Rick Haaning (P).

Wheeling — Bob Burke (3B), John Theriault (SS), Jeff Brisson (OF), and George Pattee (P).

Logan Square — Stan Bobowski (1B), Tom Chapman (C), Bob Foster (OF), and Mike Cook (P).

Norwood Park — Nick Colletti (SS), and Jim Murrow (P).

Despite the splendid array of talent on this year's team, several notable Ninth

Legion standings still undecided

by LARRY EVERHART

A pair of pitchers wearing No. 13 cast hexes on one another's teams in Wednesday's crucial American Legion baseball game at Recreation Park. Batters might as well have had black cats parading in front of home plate all evening.

And now, people are beginning to wonder whether Wheeling will ever score off Arlington Heights' Jim Hopkins, or Heights off Wheeling's George Pattee, as the Ninth District continues fit to be tied this year.

Wednesday made it four times this summer that a game has had to be halted unfinished because of darkness. Arlington and Wheeling struggled to a 0-0 stalemate after eight tense innings.

Significance of the game was that a victory for Heights would have clinched the Ninth District title — and with it, the reward of a favored position in next week's double-elimination tournament that will send a team to the Cook County playoffs. A Wheeling win would have also kept it alive in the race (Park Ridge is not yet eliminated either).

Standings at dark Wednesday still stood exactly the same as at 6 p.m. gametime — Arlington 11-3, Wheeling 7-4, Park Ridge 6-4.

If Wheeling or Park Ridge either loses one of two games they'll play Saturday evening, they're eliminated (since Arlington's only remaining scheduled game is against Wheeling). If Heights has the title clinched after that twin bill Saturday, Wednesday's game will not be finished because there would be no need.

But if Wheeling wins both and also takes another suspended game against

NEW YORK (UPI)—If Babe Ruth were alive, most people who knew him say he'd be pulling for Hank Aaron to break his record.

Possibly yes, and then again, no.

Ruth never really was one to throw a wet blanket over anything, but there was some human vanity in him, too, and were he alive today it might be only natural for him to hope deep down that nobody would ever break his all-time home run record.

Roger Maris is very much alive and prospering in Gainesville, Fla., where he's president and owner of the Maris Distributing Company and he IS pulling for Hank Aaron to hit those 715 homers.

As the last man to break one of Ruth's legendary records by belting 61 home runs in 1961, Maris, perhaps better than anyone else in the world, knows what Aaron is going through now.

He knows all the neverending demands being made upon Atlanta's 39-year-old slugger, all the inner turmoil Aaron has to contend with, and all the pressure still in store for him.

"He's going to find out the only time he's going to get any relief is when he's out on the field," says Maris. "He'll never be able to enjoy himself either before or after the ball game. He'll never be allowed to relax."

Roger Maris speaks from personal experience. The pressure on him reached such a point 12 years ago that thick patches of hair began falling out of his scalp. He always felt that was due more to the pressure he was getting from people than to the pressure of cracking Ruth's record.

"It's the continuous thing of people wanting your time," says Maris. "And everyone insists on being first. It's wearing on you, and it isn't something that stops after awhile. It keeps wearing and wearing all the time. You get tired answering the same questions. 'What kind of pitch did you hit?' 'How many more home runs do you think you can hit?' 'Did the umpire call a bad pitch on you?' "

Roger Maris laughed.

"How do you tell these people, it's not the umpire, it's you, yourself. You're the only one who can do it, not anybody else, and you can't explain every one of your actions the way people want you to. I can sit here and say a lot of things about what it's like, and what it's going to be like later for Hank Aaron, but even another ballplayer doesn't understand completely.

You have to be in the position yourself. That's when you feel these things. I'll tell you this much: Mentally, the whole thing puts one helluva strain on you. It sorta makes you shy away from people, too. When the ball game was over, I'd go right back to my apartment."

Maris doesn't have much doubt about Aaron getting those 19 more homers he needs to break the record

"When you're that close, you wanna get it," says the 38-year-old former Yankee outfielder. "I feel he will. I hope he does. I've spoken with him a few times while I was still playing, but I don't really know him that well. I'm for him though. For all the things he has done since he came into baseball, you have to admire and respect him."

When Maris was closing in on Ruth's record in 1961, he received a number of letters, similar to some Aaron is getting now, telling him he couldn't carry Ruth's athletic supporter.

"I got my share of those," says Maris. "As soon as I'd see they were derogatory, I'd throw them in the trash basket."

Baseball lives on statistics, and those who point out Aaron has some 2,700 more at bats than Ruth ever had also kept reminding Ford Frick, the baseball commissioner in 1961, that Maris was getting the opportunity to set the record in 163 games whereas Ruth had only 154 games to set his.

Frick decided an asterisk would be placed alongside any record Maris set after 154 games.

In the Yankees' 154th game, Maris hit his 59th homer, and connected for his 60th in the 159th game. His record-setting 61st homer came in the club's 163rd game at Yankee Stadium and Maris still remembers he hit a fast ball down and away. Tracy Stallard remembers it, too. He should. He served it up.

Roger Maris, 220 pounds now, and holding, has four sons, and his youngest, Richard, 9, regularly listens to the Braves' games which can be heard in Gainesville.

Last Sunday, the boy ran up to his father and said, "Dad, Dad, Hank hit two!"

Next Monday, Maris is taking all his boys up to Atlanta for their first ball game of the season.

To see Hank Aaron?

"Well, yes," says Roger Maris, "but the big reason is Richard wants to see the Mets. He loves 'em. Not only does he want to see the game, but he insists we stay at the same hotel the Mets do. Only I can't get rooms there. They're all booked. Now what do I do?"

Prep tournament unfolds Saturday

Four head-to-head confrontations between area representatives highlighted action in the High School Summer League baseball program. Schaumburg stopped Elk Grove, 8-2, Hersey won an 8-7 thriller against Prospect, Wheeling handled Arlington, 8-1 and Forest View tripped Rolling Meadows, 6-5. The Falcons earlier handled Fenton, 8-1 and Maine South, 7-3. Crystal Lake nipped Fremd, 1-0.

The post-season, single-elimination tournament begins tomorrow, but only three Herald area clubs will be in action. Arlington and Conant will clash in a first-round battle at Conant while Elk Grove travels to Highland Park for its opening game.

Forest View, Wheeling, Hersey, Prospect, Rolling Meadows, Fremd and Buffalo Grove all drew first-round byes and will automatically begin second-round play Monday.

SAXONS TOPPLE ELK GROVE

Schaumburg scored seven runs on only one hit in the second inning to post an 8-2 victory over Elk Grove.

Joe Hannon walked to lead off the second, Scott Mielke reached on an error and Dan Ludwig got the only hit of the inning to load the bases. The first two runs scored on wild pitches Ron Kuchnia walked to force one in. Gary Merchant and Ray Fairbanks both reached on errors, scoring two more. Hannon walked again to force in the sixth run of the inning and Mielke lifted a sacrifice fly to end the Schaumburg scoring.

The Saxons had tallied in the first when Kuchnia singled and eventually scored on a groundout.

Elk Grove got on the board in the second when David Millner was safe on an error, David Ray walked and Ken Wajerski singled Millner home. In the fifth, Glenn Straomberg and Jim Maier both walked and Stromberg scored when Paul Gulliksen reached on an error.

Merchant got the win and Rick Eckardt suffered the loss.

CARUSO, HERSEY WIN THRILLER

John Caruso wiggled out of a rundown between third and home with two out in the bottom of the seventh to give Hersey a thrilling 8-7 victory over Prospect.

Caruso had walked and stolen two bases when, with two outs, Prospect's pitcher caught him leaning at third. The third baseman ran him down towards home plate but Caruso evaded the catcher's tag to score the winning run.

Prospect had knotted it at 7-7 in the top of the inning when Rich Streng doubled and scored on Laddie Janda's sacrifice fly.

Hersey went ahead 7-6 in the fifth when Caruso singled and went to second on an error, then moved up on a wild pitch and tallied on a passed ball.

Prospect grabbed an early 5-0 lead when Mark Keane singled in the first inning, was balked to second and scored on Kevin Kelley's double. Mike Radoll singled in Kelley, then scored on Mike Quade's base hit. Quade tallied on Janda's two-bagger.

In the second Keane reached on a fielder's choice, was balked to second and Kelley singled him in. That made it 5-0.

Prospect got its sixth run in the third inning when Streng singled, went to second on a groundout and tallied on Brian Wolski's single.

Hersey posted three runs in both the second and third. In the second, Dave Mnichowicz doubled, Art Hoesterey singled him in, Dave Carey singled, a wild pitch scored Hoesterey, and Mark Krause delivered an RBI single.

Tom Vetta singled to lead off the third before Caruso and Paul Cortes singled to score one. A wild pitch brought in one more and Mnichowicz singled home the last run.

Keith Caslin got the win for Hersey and George Savage took the loss for Prospect.

WILDCATS ROMP AGAIN

The game was decided after the first inning, for all practical purposes.

Wheeling's Al Newman doubled in two runs in the top of the inning and Arlington could only respond with an RBI single by Don Steffens in the bottom of the frame.

That was it for the hosting Cardinals, but not for the Wildcats. They went on scoring for an easy 8-1 victory.

Six different guys accounted for the 'Cats 10 hits with Newman posting another clutch single in the fifth that drive in another. Steffens paced the Cards with 2-for-2, half the team's hit output off winning pitcher, Kevin Gough.

Gough had five strikeouts and two walks. Losing hurler Terry Gray had four and five, respectively. Both went the distance.

FALCON RALLY BEATS MUSTANGS

Keith Mallian's bases-loaded single earned him a pitching victory and a thrilling 6-5 triumph for Forest View. Mallian's single to center capped a three-run, seventh-inning rally that wiped out a 5-3 Rolling Meadows advantage.

The early innings were a home-run derby parade with the Mustangs getting the better of the deal. Scott Green blasted a solo shot for Meadows in the first and Joe Riplinger parked a circuit clout to right in the third.

Falcon Ken Butzen countered in the second with a round-tripper to right, but Meadows chipped away off Forest View starter Mike Langowski and built a 5-3 cushion.

But after one out in the seventh, Falcon Jim Petran singled, Don Stevens walked and a bloop single that was misplayed by Meadows loaded the bases. Bill Simon singled for two runs and Mallian drove in the clincher with a base hit to center.

SCORE BY INNINGS

Rolling Meadows	101	110 1—5 9-2
Forest View	110	010 3—6-10-2

FALCONS WIN TWO MORE

Forest View, suddenly red-hot, won two other games Tuesday and Wednesday morning by scores of 8-1 over Fenton and 7-3 over Maine South.

Don Stevens was the star of the Fenton game, striking out eight and walking two to breeze to the complete-game victory. No offensive details were available.

Against Maine South the big inning was the fourth when the Falcons exploded for six runs. Highlights were Tom Culkar's bases-loaded double and Greg Pfaff's two-run single. Frank Darras and Jim Petran allowed six hits between them, Darras going the first four innings for the win and Petran the last three.

VIKINGS NIPPED AGAIN

Fremd continued in its late-season slump, losing another tough one, 1-0 at Crystal Lake and being no-hit in the process. Jim Recher took a tough loss despite pitching a three-hitter with five strikeouts and two walks.

Crystal Lake scored the only run it needed in the first without a hit. A walk, stolen base, another walk, wild pitch and groundout did the trick.

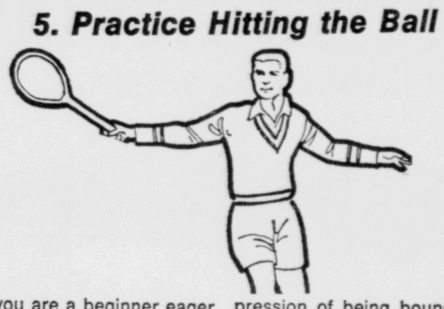
TEACH YOURSELF TENNIS

5. Practice Hitting the Ball



If you are a beginner eager to start out the right way, save yourself time and frustration by asking a good player to assist you. Imagine a circle approximately three feet in diameter just to the right of center of the court and near the baseline. It is in this area that you are going to hit the ball. Your helper tosses balls to you from the same side of net.

Start with the ready position facing the net with your feet 12 to 18 inches apart. Remember to keep your knees bent, back straight and weight on the balls of your feet. Flex your knees several times so that you get the impression of being bouncy although your feet do not actually leave the ground. You are in perfect balance, ready to hit the ball.

Remember the following as you begin to hit the ball:

—Keep your balance at all times.

—Hold your wrist firm but leave your arm relaxed.

—Keep your racket head from dropping or cocking upwards.

—Follow-through high while retaining balance.

—Hop back immediately for the next shot.

Brad Smith wins again

Arlington Heights' Brad Smith won six matches during initial eliminations in Tuscaloosa, Ala., for next month's international wrestling championships in Miami, Fla.

Smith was not beaten in the 136½-pound weight class. He is currently in double elimination training at Tuscaloosa for the July 30-Aug. 4 international meet.

Arlington's Tad DeLuca placed second at 163 pounds but dropped from further training. Bruce Beam of Des Plaines placed sixth at Tuscaloosa and did not qualify for further training and eliminations.

Pro hockey at Spectrum

Three Chicago Cougar players — Reggie Fleming, Jan Popiel and Larry Cahan — will play for the Spectrum Blades against the Madison All-Stars at 6:30 p.m. Saturday in a professional hockey game at the Arlington Ice Spectrum.

The Madison team will include Montreal Canadien goalie Murry Heatley of Vancouver. Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for children.

Chicago district golf

The Chicago District Golf Association will conduct its north qualifying round for the Illinois State Amateur championships next Monday at Forest Hills country club in Rockford. A tough qualifying round was held July 13 at the Champaign country club.

Four Herald area golfers will compete at Forest Hills. They are Ronald Anielak of Des Plaines, Jerry Williams and George Soteras of Palatine and John Brown of Buffalo Grove.

The state amateur championship will be held Aug. 7-9 at Pekin country club. Thirty-four exempt entires plus north and south round qualifiers will produce a championship field of 150 golfers.

From campuses nationwide

Bruce Hill of Arlington Heights and Mike Pryor of Rolling Meadows played baseball this spring at Elmhurst College. Bruce is a freshman majoring in elementary education. Mike is a freshman and physical education major.

Two win at Niles West

Jim Keane and John Lodal, both of Des Plaines, were winners recently at the Niles West cross-country, track and field open meet. Keane, of Maine East, won the pole vault with a 12-6 leap. Lodal won the javelin and shot put.

Niles West hosts track opens every Friday night. Registration begins at 5:30 p.m. with the first events starting 45 minutes later.

Bowie Kuhn with FCA

Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn has accepted honorary chairmanship of the Branch Rickey Associates of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Primary purpose of the program is to provide the FCA with a sound financial base.

Serving as vice-chairmen are New York Jet offensive tackle Winston Hill and Chicago Cub shortstop Don Kessinger.

World Team Tennis draft

World Team Tennis will hold its initial player draft of men and women on Aug. 3 in New York City. No more than 20 rounds will be held with each team eventually numbering three men and three women.

George MacCall, WTT commissioner, expects many of the opening choices will be women since there are fewer "big name" women players than men.

WTT franchises will be located in Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Denver, Detroit, Houston, Los Angeles, Miami, Minnesota, New York, Philadelphia, Phoenix, Pittsburgh, San Diego, San Francisco-Oakland and Toronto.

The Miami franchise was originally ticketed for St. Louis.

National football meeting

Two area men will fill prominent roles when the National Federation of State High School Associations holds its 1973 football rules interpretation meeting on Monday, Aug. 6, in Elgin.

David Arnold of Arlington Heights will discuss standards for athletic equipment as it relates to football rules and injuries. Arnold is a member of the National Federation staff.

Norman Geske, principal of Joyce Kilmer elementary school in Wheeling and a rules interpreter for Illinois, will discuss important changes for the 1973 season.

Geske is an active football official and former member of the Advisory Committee to the National Alliance Football Rules Committee.

UOP at Watkins Glen

Universal Oil Products' racing driver Jackie Oliver will run this Sunday over the 3.377 mile Watkins Glen Grand Prix course in New York.

The Des Plaines based firm will have two cars available to Oliver — their standard 735-hourspower UOP Shadow plus a new Turbo-Shadow which will make its racing debut if Oliver chooses the latter car.

Oliver was running in third place at the Road Atlanta Can-Am race two weeks ago until his Shadow was sidelined by a minor suspension failure.

Owner Don Nichols has been so encouraged by the 735 Shadow that he is now developing a 1,200-hoursepower Chevrolet.

FIELDS CALLED FOUL TERRITORY

Dear Sirs:

I continue to be amazed at the wretched condition of the baseball fields in Mount Prospect.

Ordinarily, they are bleached and barren Saharas of choking dust — dust that would fly in even greater clouds were it not for the fact that the clay ground is baked into an adobe hardness that makes every ground ball a potential invitation to orthodontal disaster. True, there is quite liberal sprinkling of rocks, pebbles and other debris, cleverly placed to test the courage of every infielder. Lest you imagine the outfielders have been neglected in this respect, holes and gulleys and other impedamenta abound.

But the most fun comes when it rains. Then, yawning ponds appear at home plate, first base, second base, and third base. Depending on which field you're at, there will be other ponds at strategic locations. One might expect such Waldens to be stocked with fish, but this would be impractical, since they do drain within three or four days — during which time, of course, no ball games can be played. Of course, these ponds could be eliminated by placing a few yards of dirt into the holes, but then how would Mount Prospect's children learn to cope with the disappointments that are a natural part of living?

Are spectators neglected at our ball parks? No indeed! While waiting for the dust to settle (or the ponds to be drained) they can amuse themselves looking for a place to sit without splinters, or they can count the holes in the backstops. or, if they are at Lyons Park for a night game, they can light matches or catch fireflies to supplement the 20 or so Christmas tree lights that ring the field in gloom.

Having ventured beyond the unfriendly confines of Mount Prospect's ball parks to those of neighboring communities, I can report that the world of baseball is not confined to dust, pebbles, ponds, and holes. Dirt IS available to fill the holes. Workmen ARE available to patch the fences. Electricity IS available to light the ball as it hurtles at some youngster.

But we residents of Mount Prospect DO have one thing to be proud of. In an era where the phrase, "bush league" has been fading from common usage, we are carefully preserving this revered baseball term.

Residents of neighboring communities — if you want to see a genuine "bush league" baseball town in operation, please visit Mount Prospect. But don't rush — it's been going on for years, and those responsible aren't about to get rid of such a unique tourist attraction overnight!

PROUD AND GRATIFIED

Dear Sirs:

This is to publicly thank the super-fine sports staff of Paddock Publications. I took it upon myself to try to give honor to a local and very talented baseball player, Greg Luzinski. At first the Merchants of Prospect Heights Old Town Shopping Center wanted to take just one bus load of Little Leaguers to a game (at Wrigley Field) July 5. But through your staff, especially Paul Logan, Tom Carkeek and Bob Frisk, our one bus load became four. About 450 kids and 50 parents enjoyed the game. (Ed. Note: Luzinski complied by belting a tape-measure home run!)

Since the day at Wrigley Field I have had many parents and kids thank me personally for arranging this trip. That alone is very gratifying to me, but many fine people helped me arrange this trip, including:

Mr. Roy Swanson, President of Prospect Heights Little League, Mr. Ray Worsely of the Austin Paint Store in the shopping center, Mrs. Ruth Trowbridge of the Trowbridge Crafts store, and all the other merchants in the shopping center. Without their help and cooperation this trip would not have been as successful as it was.

Greg Luzinski is a very fine athlete and fine young man. His nice manner and cooperation is a credit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Luzinski of Prospect Heights. His baseball ability is a tribute to the Little League system and its coaches and managers.

CHICAGO SCENE DAFFY

Dear Sirs:

It seems to me that things have been getting more and more strange lately in Chicago sports. Here is what I think about some of our teams, even though nobody asked me.

CUBS: Some people got down on them for their West coast trip when they won only two games and lost six. I think they should have some understanding. You'd be too tired to play, too, if you were spending so much time at Disneyland, the beach, taking the wife and kids sightseeing, etc. I have a suggestion for the next road trip. The players stay home and the wives go on the trip. They couldn't do any worse.

Oh, yes, if Mr. Team Spirit, Ferguson Jenkins, was depressed and lost his zest for baseball when the Cubs were six games ahead, I really feel sorry for him, the way he must feel now. Maybe he'd like to trade places with me. He can have any office job and ordinary salary and I'll take his 100 grand a year.

WHITE SOX: The recent skid must be according to plan because Chuck Tanner said if the Sox are within five games of first place in September, they can win in. Well, that's just where they are at the writing so I guess there's nothing to worry about. No matter how far down they finish, they alwasy have the excuse of all their injuries. The good teams overcome injuries and the crybaby teams . . .

BEARS: What's the big deal about Bobby Douglass being discharged from the National Guard (for physical reasons)? That shouldn't be surprising to anyone who saw him play last season. He looked then like he didn't have any feeling in his left arm. He was probably discharged because his accuracy with a rifle was the same as with his passing.

Nothing to worry about with the Bears either. If only three guys retire each day, as happened the first day of training camp, they should still be able to find enough rookies and free agensts to field 11 men for the start of the exhibition season. And don't ever feel sorry for Abe Gibron. He's still pulling in that nice chunk of money with new Ford commercials, which still have him surrounded by sexy chicks.

BLACK HAWSS: There will soon be 10,000 more seats in the Stadium, which means that nice man Arthur Wirtz, the Fan's Owner, can charge 10,000 more people per game $1 apiece for programs and $1 apiece for beers, not to mention enough per ticket to go to the movies for a week. The place will still be sold out no matter what — even after most of the good players have jumped to the World Hockey Association, where they can make better money, and after the Cougars become the best hockey team in town.

Des Plaines boys baseball clinic

Boys who participate will be instructed on how to slide, bunt, hit and field. For further information, contact the Des Plaines park district at 296-6106.

DEAD DUCK. Arlington Heights' Mike Broderick is an easy out at third base after being caught off second, Wheeling's Bob Burke makes tag. Legion teams played to an eight-inning, 0-0 tie.

Area teams vie for state softball title

12-11, in extra innings to the Bobcats this year.

Six other Herald area teams, all with fine credentials, will enter first round action on Saturday.

Olson Care Scrappers of Mount Prospect, headed by Jack Olson, take a 36-6 record into state play. They're defending champs and current leaders (9-0) in the Mount Prospect League.

Olson has compiled a 15-2 record in the Chicago Mather Park League and is 12-4 in the Chicago Clarendon Park "A" League. The club has played together just three years and reached state semi-finals last year.

Two years running, Olson has lost to the Rogues in final qualifications for the world tournament.

Clem Macy's Wheeling Spirit is 23-6 and first (7-2) in the Wheeling League. They're second in two leagues, 8-2 in Arlington Heights and 8-1 in Buffalo Grove. Wheeling's other loss was sustained in the Elmhurst Tournament.

Arlington Heights' Legal Eagles led their town's league at 9-0 and are tied for first in Mount Prospect with a 5-1 record. They're 22-2 overall, finished third in the Windy City Tournament and coached by Bob Klein.

Other entries include Fred Schleicher's Des Plaines Squirrels, 7-1 in Barrington League play and 9-1 in Rand Park play. They're 17-3 overall.

The Elk Grove Jaycees, coached by Al Landt, won their town's American League with a 12-0 record. Ron Malmati's Palatine entry — Roberto's Hot Dog — has played to a 9-3 record.

League-leading Post 208 faces Stars

District athletes were bypassed. Wheeling first baseman Keith Steelman and right fielder Terry Kukla, Park Ridge shortstop Russ Anderson and catcher Mike McDonnell, and Logan Square right fielder Steve Bobowski and shortstop Jim Bucaro received staunch support in some quarters during Tuesday evening's balloting. The six league coaches and a representative of Paddock Publications cast ballots in the election.

Park Ridge was soundly beaten by the all-stars last summer 11-3. The all-stars led only 3-2 after six innings, but they erupted for seven runs in the seventh to ice the game.

Traditionally, the all-star game is played every year on a date specified between the end of the regular Ninth District season and the district tournament. The stars play the team which is in first place at the time of the balloting, held as late in the year as possible.

Since Arlington was in first place with an 11-3 record Tuesday night, the defending state champions will challenge the all-stars. Arlington will not have clinched the title, though, until either second-place Wheeling loses one of its three remaining games or Arlington wins its final contest. Wheeling still must play Park Ridge twice Saturday, then finish a suspended game with Logan Square Sunday morning before the all-star game.

If Wheeling drops any of those three games, the title automatically goes to Arlington.

If, however, Wheeling wins all three, its record would be 10-4 to Arlington's 11-3. Then Wheeling and Arlington would finish Wednesday night's suspended game Monday evening.

If Arlington would win that game, it would be the outright champion. But if Wheeling should knock off Arlington, the title would go to Wheeling, even though they would have identical records, since Wheeling will have taken the season series two games to one.

Park Ridge also could finish 11-4 if it wins its remaining five contests, but since Arlington already has won the season series with Romes' crew the championship would go to Arlington.

District tournament play opens Tuesday at three sites yet to be determined. All tourney games will start at 5 p.m., not the usual 6 p.m., since the games will run nine innings.

Wheeling, Heights blanked

Logan Square at St. Viator at 11:30 Sunday morning, then Wheeling and Arlington will meet for the title Monday at 6:00 at Recreation Park. Saturday's Wheeling-Park Ridge get-together will start at 5:00 with the completion of yet another suspended game, with a regular contest to follow.

(Got that?)

Now, about Wednesday's game . . . a better pitcher's duel is not likely to be seen. Both Hopkins and Pattee were marvelous, both going the full eight innings.

Pattee gave up three hits, seven walks (two intentional) and struck out four while wriggling out of jams in the seventh and eighth. Hopkins permitted five hits but walked only two and struck out eight.

Wheeling didn't seriously threaten, except possibly in the eighth with runners on first and second, two outs, and ace hitter Keith Steelman up. A strikeout bailed out Hopkins. Earlier he had been aided by a pair of slick double plays.

Arlington would have won in the eighth at any field with a fence, because Bob Harth's long drive would have been a homer. But there are no barriers at Rec Park, and Wheeling left fielder Bob Peter made a fine play flagging down the wallop and holding speed demon Harth to a triple. He got no further.

George Vukovich had led off the Arlington seventh with a double. An intentioal walk, sacrifice bunt by Gregg Hauptly and another intentional pass loaded the bases with one out before Pattee bore down to get out of it on a popup and a grounder.

Mid-Teen report

Ralph Amelio's powerful mound performance easily got Johnson past Optimists, 6-0, in Des Plaines Mid-Teen play this week.

Leaders fo the American Division, Johnson is perfect after five second half games and owns a two-game bulge over Allens, 8-0 winners over Bantam on Wednesday.

It's up to Allens, first half American champs, to overhaul Johnson as no other divisional club has a chance. Optimists own a 2-3 record and Bantam is winless in five games.

AMELIO MOWS 'EM DOWN

Ralph Amelio struck out at least one batter every inning and blew Optimists down on strikes in the first when Johnson won, 6-0, on Wednesday.

He totalled 13 strikeouts, getting two men in the second, third, fourth and seventh innings. Amelio walked six and allowed just one hit.

Johnson struck losing pitcher Pete Kesaris for a run in the first when Amelio singled, moved up on a wild pitch and scored on Steve Zuccarini's hit.

That was all they needed, of course, but Johnson rallied for two runs in the third and three more in the fifth.

Zuccraini picked up another run-batted-in with his sacrifice fly in the third, knocking in Mike Kelley. Amelio singled home Paul Moughamian that inning.

Johnson picked up its three fifth inning tallies on three walks, one error, two passed balls and two wild pitches.

Kesaris threw all six innings for Optimists, giving six runs on just four hits but walking four. He had seven strikeouts.

ALLENS CRUSHES BANTAM, 8-0

An eight-run second inning provided the medicine Allens needed to kill off Bantam and keep pace in the chase to catch Johnson. Allens won, 8-0.

Winning pitcher Jim Olsen doubled to start the second and later singled the inning's last two runs home. In between, there were singles by Ted Godawski, Keith Ways, Ken Kueker and Rich Slapke. Paul Anderson doubled. Scott Blaski and Rick Felde walked.

The game lasted just five innings, Olsen going all the way with the three-hitter, seven strikeouts and two walks.

Bantam started with Al Mueller but he was removed in the second with none out, the bags loaded and four runs home. He did manage one strikeout.

Countryside 'Y' League at halfway point

The golfers of the Countryside YMCA Ladies League marked the halfway point of the season recently by enjoying lunch and having a swim in the pool at the home of Mrs. Jasper Sanfilippo, Plum Tree Road, Barrington, after a morning round of golf.

The Social Committee — Marian Sanfilippo, Pat Urban and Deane Wandersee — reported that the pool party was a huge success. The members were joined by their children.

The golfers tee-off each Monday at 8:30 a.m. and, according to the handicap chairman, Amy Layton, the scores so far are proving that regular golf does show good results.

Competition is getting tighter each week and the trophies are still up for grabs.

All members will continue to play till the end of August when the final winners will be announced at a tournament luncheon to be arranged by the social committee.

Rebels down Judson 6-3

The Northwest Rebels picked up their 11th win of the season in their first non-conference game Wednesday night by shelving Judson 6-3.

The Rebels are 11-3 overall and 10-3 in the Greater Midwest Semi-Pro League. They lead the North Division and will clash with South Division leader Skokie Saturday morning at Harper College. Then they will host hot Cragin in an afternoon game in a rare doubleheader against different teams. Sunday the Rebels play host to Elmwood Park.

The Rebels had to fight from behind twice in Wednesday's contest. Judson hit starter Ray Gross for two runs on three hits in the first inning and one more in the third. But the winners posted two-spots in the second, third and sixth to wrap up the game.

The Rebels tied it in the second Steve Smith reached on a fielder's choice, George Kinser singled him to third and Smith tallied on a delayed double steal. Then Wally Weiner singled in Kinser.

The host club tied it in the third when Dean Sheridan powered a solo home run. In the same inning, the Rebels took the lead for good when Mark Frase walked, was sacrificed into scoring position by Bruce Eberle and came home on Gayre Pemberton's base hit.

They added two insurance runs in the sixth when Smith singled, Bob Andreas walked, Weiner laid down a bunt that went for a base hit and a throwing error on the third baseman scoring Smith, and Mike Wulbecker grounded out to drive in Andreas.

Terry Smith relieved Gross in the ffth and fanned three in his two innings. Gross gave up six hits in five innings.

Pitching assignments for this weekend are Randy Cordova against Skokie, Terry Smith against Cragin, and Dan Kennedy and Rick Peekel against Elmwood Park.

TWIN KILLING. Arlington Heights shortstop Rick Sidor, after forcing unidentified Wheeling runner on second baseman Marc Klemp's pickup, fires to first to complete one of two Heights' double plays. Dumke authors two-hitter; Lions shut out Northbrook

Jim Dumke twirled a two-hit shutout as his Logan Square Lions raced past Northbrook 5-0 in a non-league Legion baseball game Wednesday night at St. Viator High School.

Dumke gave up both hits in the second inning with one out, but steered clear of any damage. He surrendered a couple walks in the seventh, but again Northbrook couldn't capitalize. No Northbrook runner strayed past second base.

Stan Bobowski blasted a 380-foot shot over the rightfield fence in the second inning to give Dumke all the support he required.

In the fifth, the Lions scored again when Ed Collins doubled and tallied on Bob Foster's base hit.

Three Lions crossed the plate in the sixth when Mark Rickerson drew a walk, Steve Bobowski singled, Jim Bucaro knocked in a run with a base hit, Stan Bobowski walked to lead the bases, Pat Rooney walked to force one in, and Collins lifted a sacrifice fly to center to score the last run.

Collins' sacrifice fly started some real fireworks, though, because it turned into a triple play for Northbrook. The center fielder caught Collins' fly and threw home but Bucaro beat the throw. On the throw, Rooney tried to tag up and advance to second, but a peg from the catcher to the second baseman caught Rooney. Seeing the throw to second, Stan Bobowski then tried to come home, but a throw back to the place nailed him.

Dumke's record now is 8-4.

"LADY WITH A FAN" was painted by Pablo Picasso in 1909. The oil belongs to the Pushkin Museum in Moscow.

"STILL LIFE WITH FRUIT" is an oil on canvas painted by Paul Gauguin in 1888. From the Pushkin Museum in Moscow, this work by the French artist is included in an Impressionist and Post-Impressionist exhibition at the Chicago Art Institute.

Extraordinary exhibit

The Soviet masterpieces

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Even the dire poverty Renoir experienced as an unknown working artist in Paris was never reflected in his paintings of the French city.

With already enough misery exposed in the world, in his opinion, Renoir preferred making life lighter, a bit more gay, by painting pleasant, more joyous and pretty things. This was in direct opposition to other artists of the Impressionist and Post-Impressionist period like Van Gogh and Gauguin, rebel painters who by the strokes of their brushes depicted their own turbulent and bizarre personalities.

The contrasts, similarities and relationships between a number of the great Impressionist and Post-Impressionist painters are currently being told in the "Nineteenth and Twentieth Century French Paintings from the Soviet Union" exhibition which opened Wednesday at the Art Institute of Chicago.

INCLUDING 41 great masterpieces, this is the first representative collection from Soviet museums to ever be seen outside of Russia. And without a doubt, the show does live up to all its prior publicity and promises.

Short paragraphs in both English and Spanish that appear next to each painting plainly explaining each artist's individual development and techniques, allow even the most inexperienced layman to view and seriously appreciate the exhibit. It's a cultural undertaking rarely if not ever to be seen again.

And even more impressive than the number of great masters brought together for one collection — Monet, Picasso, Matisse, Gauguin, Van Gogh, Cezanne, Derain, Renoir, Rousseau, Braque, Leger, Pissarro, Sisley and Vlaminck — is the variety of artistic expression on hand. If you haven't already developed favorites, you will after this exhibit.

SEVEN OF the 41 masterpieces are by Matisse whose still lifes are unusually inventive with backgrounds as predominant and noteworthy as the featured items themselves. His use of clear colors is of a functional nature, employed to build up all his forms that, often as not, are distorted in perspective.

Several of Gauguin's pieces are also presented in the exhibit, the majority being from his first Tahitian period. Guaguin preferred painting things the color he saw and wanted, not as they would realistically appear to the eye. One prime example is the green tint he puts in the face of the girl featured in his "Still Life With Fruit."

While Gauguin's work is certainly intriguing, I prefer the gentle and serene expressions manifested in the two Monet paintings, two Renoir pieces and the one of Montmartre Boulevard in Paris as painted by Pissarro.

BOTH PICASSO'S gloomier blue period and later Cubism works are in this exhibit, pointing out the artist's whim for "painting not what you see but what you know is there" . . . but still relying partly on reality to designate what it's all about.

Rousseau's work, stylistically simple, shows his love for suburban and country scenes with a special emphasis on aeronautics, a field that had been introduced onto the scene in his lifetime.

Then, there are the unfinished brillantly hued landscapes of Cezanne and pieces by Georges Braque, the only artist to have participated in both the Fauve and Cubist movements, even working with Picasso from 1908-1914.

There is a single abstract in the show, one by Fernand Leger who was quite taken with technology and machines. He appeared quite later on the scene than many of the others, having lived from 1881 to 1955.

THE IMPRESSIONIST and Post-Impressionist French Paintings from the U.S.S.R. will continue to be shown at the Art Institute week nights as well as each day through Aug. 12, after which time the exhibit in its entirety will travel to Kimbell Art Museum in Fort Worth, Tex., where it will be displayed Aug. 22 through Sept. 16.

The exhibit opened at the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D. C., in March and was subsequently shown at the Knoedler Gallery and the Los Angeles County Museum before coming to Chicago.

In expectation of huge crowds, a special entrance off of Michigan Avenue has been constructed to lead directly into the Morton Wing, the site of the exhibit.

The admission fee for nonmembers is $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for children, students and senior citizens.

In connection with the show, a free brochure is available plus a short color film at the entrance to the exhibit and two public lectures.

FRANZ SCHULZE, Chicago Daily News art critic, will deliver the first lecture, "A New Look at the Masterpieces from Russia," next Tuesday, 5:30 p.m.

The second, "New Insights on Matisse, Gauguin and Van Gogh from the Russian Painting Exhibition" will be presented by Robert Beetem, chairman of the department of art history from the University of Wisconsin at Madison. It will be given Tuesday, Aug. 7, also at 5:30 p.m.

These lectures are being made possible by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

A catalogue of the exhibition, $7.50, contains a color plate of each work, brief biographies of the artists and notes on each painting.

The Russian masterpieces are currently on loan from the Hermitage Museum in Leningrad and and the Pushkin Museum in Moscow.

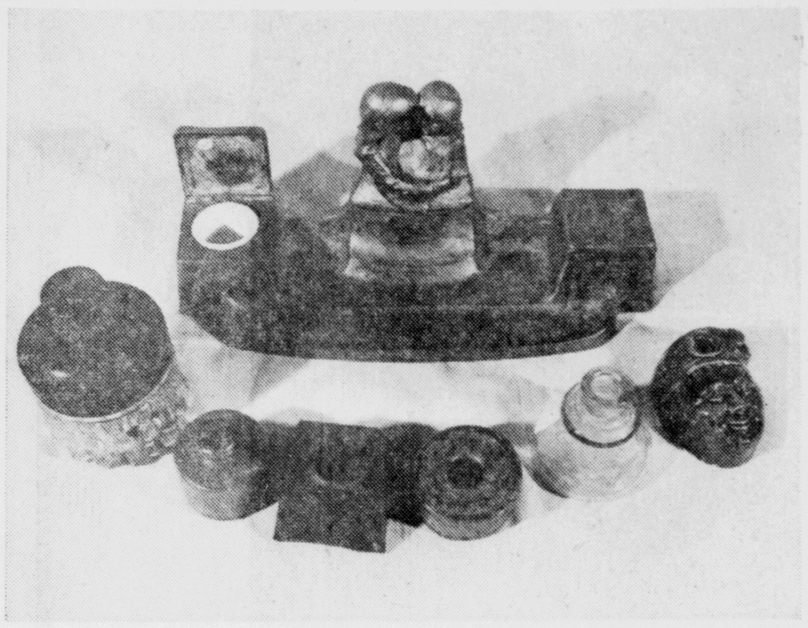
RENOIR PAINTED pleasant subjects. "Child with a Whip" was done in 1885. It is on loan from the Hermitage Museum in Leningrad.

VINCENT VAN GOGH painted this oil on canvas in 1890. Entitled "Cottages" (in Auvers, France) the painting is on loan from the Hermitage Museum in Leningrad. Forty-one great masterpieces are on exhibit at the Art Institute now through Aug. 12.

Collecting

with Grace Carolyn



If you would like to collect something a bit different and not too expensive (as-yet), think ink! Inkwells, ink bottles and related pen holders, pen wipers, blotters, desk sets — many of these may still be picked up quite reasonably.

Ink has an old and fascinating history. The Egyptians and Chinese started it all, as usual, when they learned to make black ink by 2000 B.C., using lampblack or charcoal mixed with various gums or glues. When the ink was to be used, water was added. Today, so called China or India inks, used for drawing, are made by the same principle. Carbon was another early source of color, as well as plant or animal extracts.

Most modern blue-black writing inks are similar to iron-gall inks which were first used about 200 B.C. They were made for centuries with iron salts and with "galls" found on the trunks of oak trees. Most households in our pioneer days made their own ink by the above method or with the juice of berries.

GOOSE QUILL pens were used with the homemade ink, of course, and these evolved into the "penny pens" I remember from my Palmer Method writing days. And speaking of pens, guess what I saw at the Chicago Art Institute ensconced within a glass case, resting on a pedestal in solitary splendor? A fountain pen! It was bright orange, early plastic, and evidently, but its place of prominence, is considered an art object.

Fountain pens are sold at the flea markets for upwards of $1, or you could probably start a collection by rummaging in the back of your mother's desk drawer. Those rubber bladder filled pens were the scourge of my childhood, when I was preparing a paper of elaborate fluorishes for penmanship class and dripped a big blob of ink in the center of my finished page. Little boys loved to use them for squirt guns, too.

IN THE PICTURE, in the back, is a cast brass double inkwell I found years ago in a junk shop, covered with brown paint. I guessed that it was iron, but when I removed the paint found the beautiful brass underneath. The two sides lift to show little porcelain inkwells, and the center decoration is two children arm in arm. It is about 10 inches long. I know people get tired of hearing about all the bargains in the good old days, but this one set me back $2!

In front, left to right, are a glass with Bakelite cover English inkwell, a Pennsylvania yellow ware pottery, a handmade tin box type, another pottery probably from Ohio, a bluish glass bottle and a Rockingham ware (brown mottled pottery) "Sultan's Face." All these inkwells are old and the top price paid for any of them was $5, not too long ago.

If you have a collection you would like featured, please write Grace Carolyn Dahlberg, in care of Paddock Publications, Suburban Living, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

The Book Stall

"HAZARD," by GERALD A. BROWNE
Arbor House, $7.95

Browne has followed his successful suspense novel, "11 Harrowhouse," with a real humdinger of a spy story that makes even the implausible sound plausible.

From page one, the reader is caught up in the plot by Arab extremists to wipe out Israel's population by stealing and releasing cylinders of a death-dealing nerve gas that have been disposed of by the U.S. military in the deepest part of the Mid-Atlantic.

Freelance intelligence agent Norman "Haz" Hazard discovers the plot while trying to avenge the death of his older brother, Carl, a U.S. foreign service officer who had been killed by the extremists.

Naturally, Hazard has a beautiful, brainy blonde mistress, Keven, who helps in the pursuit. She's a health food nut.

Both Hazard and Keve also are participating in a serious study of mental telepathy. This project helps send our man where he wants to be and needs to be to unravel the mystery of his brother's death and, simultaneously, thwart the Arabs.

To tell more of the plot would be unfair. Who wants to spoil the best suspense story in many a long month?

"JASON AND MEDEIA,"
by John Gardner
Knopf, $5.95

The author of "The Sunlight Dialogues" and "Grendel" (the Beowolf legend from the monster's point of view) now puts Euripides in modern dress and language to present the story of Jason and Medea (he spells it Medeia) as a contemporary allegory that's intriguing but trying for all but a limited audience.

by Peta Fordham
Harper & Row, $7.95

Mrs. Fordham is a social chronicler of the London underworld, which has its upper and lower orders and snobberies in crime and criminals to match anything found among Burke's Peerage. These days, apparently, deplorable corruptions are creeping into both criminal and police classes.

German favorites

When West Germans go record hunting, musical comedy tops the list, with popular tunes running a close second.

A survey by a private organization said 44 per cent preferred musical comedies or operettas while 43 per cent voted for popular tunes from the Top 20 chart.

German folk music was another favorite, followed in order by opera, marches, beat, classical music, jazz and language records. (UPI)

Former Byrd Roger McGuinn (he went by Jim in the early days) is about to become a major rock star. At least he should.

McGuinn plays fine guitar and has a soft, pleasing voice. And his first solo album, "Roger McGuinn" (Columbia KC 31946), is outstanding.

McGuinn shouldn't lose. Take his single, "Draggin'." It's both up-to-date and remindful of the past. It's a traveling song, but this time around the traveling's being done in a 747 jetliner. The past comes in with the touches of surf music, as made popular by the Beach Boys in the '60s. Indeed, former Beach Boy Bruce Johnston plays piano and supplies harmony "oos" on the song.

Two other "now" songs rank among the album's best. "Hanoi Hannah" is a bluesy tale of a love affair "over there." "Bag Full of Money" in which a former draftee hijacks a plane, using his Army taught parachute skills, is full of wry humor.

NOT QUITE as good, but still nice, are the searching "I'm So Restless" with Bob Dylan on harmonica and "My New Woman," a Byrds type song jazzed up. Most of the jazz comes from Charles Lloyd's sax playing and the Byrds sound comes from the rest of the original Byrds who join in. Namely, Chris Hillman on bass, Michael Clarke on drum, Gene Clark on vocal and David Crosby on vocal.

McGuinn shows he can use a mood too in songs like "Time Cube" (which is sometimes a little too mystical) and "Draggin'." The traditional "Heave Away" sailor chanty is welcome because Spanky McFarlane helps out with the vocals. I hadn't heard her in some time as Spanky and Our Gang haven't been recording.

This album is a fine start for McGuinn's second career. Byrds fans should enjoy it, as should those too young to have been Byrds fans (although you don't have to be too old).

Commander Cody and His Lost Planet Airmen play country that almost any rock fan can enjoy. "Country Casanova" (Paramount PAS-6054) is their latest gem.

Best cuts are the title song, the gospel-tinged "Shall We Meet" and a revival of Buddy Holly's hit, "Rave On." Billy C. Farlow's vocals, Andy Stein's fiddle and Bobby Black's pedal steel are the standout performances among the group.

At times the band does Texas Swing or even music reminiscent of the Big Band Era, but mostly it's relaxed country dipped in rock. The lyrics get raunchy at times, but never without humor. "Smoke. Smoke. Smoke" and "One Man's Meat (Is Another Man's Poison)" are two good examples of that humor.

Joe Walsh is another who has broken away from an established group, in this case the group being the James Gang. "The Smoker You Drink, The Player You Get" (Dunhill DSX-50140) is the second solo album for the 25-year-old Kansan.

The album has two major things going for it. First in Walsh's harmonic vocals (mainly to good display on side 2). Second is the almost sensual texture of the sound, particularly in his use of a synthesizer on side 1. The best example of the latter is "Wolf" with its slow, steady beat.

The music ranges from the heavy metal sound of "Rocky Mountain Way" to the Latin beat in "Happy Ways." But both good elements come together in "Meadows" which has a fine arrangement kicked in. Another fine song is "Days Gone By" and either it or "Meadows" should be issued as a single.

While Walsh only uses a little Latin flavoring, El Chicano, the Los Angeles sextet, is Latin flavor.

The group's latest album "El Chicano" (MCA-312) is a very mellow, very pop one. The songs include Marvin Gaye's "What's Going On" and Paul Williams "We've Only Just Begun."

My favorites are the bouncy "Cha Chita" and a lovely "Tell Her She's Lovely." There are fine vocals by Jerry Salas.

El Chicano is Latin music at its most approachable for those whose primary interest is not Latin music. It is light, breezy and welcome.

Blue Max to reopen Sept. 7 Edie Adams main attraction

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Joey English

The BLUE MAX will soon be in the swing of things. Kickoff date for the reopening of the show lounge located in the REGENCY HYATT O'HARE is Sept. 7 with female vocalist EDIE ADAMS billed as the main attraction.

Closed for about six months after it was destroyed by fire, the Blue Max is in the final stages of being both greatly enlarged and completely remodeled.

A theater benefit to aid the NORTHWEST SUBURBAN DAY CARE CENTER is being held July 29 at the IVANHOE THEATRE which is currently staging a 25th anniversary performance of Tennessee Williams' "STREETCAR NAMED DESIRE." Currently starring SANDY DENNIS, the play is a hard-hitting drama and the Ivanhoe cast, in my opinion, does an exceptional job at interpreting Williams' famous work.

The Northwest Suburban Day Care Center in Des Plaines cares for children from Des Plaines, Hoffman Estates, Elk Grove, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights. Tickets are available through 825-2484.

An extremely pretty local lass, 23-year-old JOEY ENGLISH who resides with her husband-manager in Hoffman Estates, is currently mellowing diners at the TOP OF THE TOWERS penthouse restaurant of the ARLINGTON PARK TOWERS HOTEL. Her attributes include a soft, sultry voice and quiet, sexy manner. She will be entertaining nightly through Aug. 4.

The new Top of the Towers orchestra is led by BOB OLAH, who plays violin, sax and clarinet. GEORGE COOK is on piano. ED WILKINSON plays bass and STEVE MILLER takes over on the drums.

Aug. 1 marks the opening of the new KOMEDY KORNER (formerly the Starting Gate) located on the first floor near the main entrance to the Arlington Hotel.

The comedy antics of DICK CHASE and BUD MITCHELL will monopolize the limelight for at least six weeks.

Regular Arlington patrons might remember Dick and Bud when they added a new touch to the entertainment sequence in the Top of the Towers this spring. It's the same duo . . . only now they have their own room.

Because of the illness of Victor Aitay the CHICAGO SYMPHONY STRING QUARTET has canceled its concert at Ravinia this Monday that was to take place in the Murray Theatre.

Aitay, co-concertmaster of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, is the founder of the quartet. There will be no replacement performance.

"GODSPELL," the popular musical based on the Gospel according to St. Matthew, closes Aug. 5 at the STUDEBAKER THEATRE in Chicago.

The jubilant celebration that renders the life and teachings of Christ in a contemporary story theater style opened in Chicago last Sept. 19.

A shorter run, but still successful one, ends when "1776" is performed for the last time at CANDLELIGHT DINNER PLAYHOUSE Aug. 7. It will be replaced by another musical, "OLIVER."

LOUIS JOURDAN and BARBARA RUSH are still playing to sellout audiences at ARLINGTON PARK THEATRE in Noel Coward's comedy "PRIVATE LIVES."

For those who would like to have dinner with the two stars . . . at least in the same room . . . book a reservation for LE GOURMET Monday night. The French restaurant is located on Rand and Euclid Roads in Mount Prospect. The theater is dark that night so Jourdan and Miss Rush have the night off. Make it about 8 o'clock.

Following the JERRY LEE LEWIS show at MILL RUN THEATRE this weekend, another country concert starring MARTY ROBBINS and JODY MILLER will take over the theater-in-the-round for a four-day engagement beginning next Thursday, July 26.

Robbins' hits include "White Sport Coat" and "El Paso." He has had 14 No. 1 country singles and 30 records listed in the top ten.

Jody Miller's "Queen of the House" hit recording earned her a Grammy award in 1966.

FIDDLERS DOWNSTAIRS is still featuring GEORGE "STARDUST" GREEN and his trio Tuesday through Saturday nights. Sundays the FRANK DERRICK TOTAL EXPERIENCE, a 16-piece modern jazz band, plays from 7 to 11 p.m. Fiddlers is located at 1799 S. Busse Road in Mount Prospect.

Live animals coming to Prospect Plaza

Kettles the Clown and his animal friends will be at Mount Prospect Plaza, Rand and Central roads, in Mount Prospect Wednesday through Sunday, July 25 - 29, during the plaza's Dog Days Sale.

This shopping center petting zoo is framed in a circus clown theme and has approximately 30 animals and fowl consisting of goats, lambs, calf, Sicilian donkey, llama, ducks, rabbits, geese, etc. All animals in the main pen area are friendly and pettable.

When not traveling throughout the shopping center circuit, Kettles the Clown and his animal friends are featured at the Circus World Museum in Baraboo, Wis.

'Brat N' Beer Fest' scheduled for Aug. 5

For the third consecutive year, the Wheeling Historical Society is sponsoring a "Brat N' Beer Fest" to be held this summer, Aug. 5, in the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank parking lot.

"We want this to be an event in which the whole family can have a good time," said Bob Berger, general chairman of this summer's festival.

In recalling the days when communities organized large picnics complete with lots of homemade potato salad, the Wheeling Historical Society will create some nostalgia of their own with a prepared menu under the direction of Mrs. Shirley Mueller and Walter Diens.

Bratwurst soaked in beer, cooked over hickory logs and served on potato rolls with sauerkraut is the main item on the menu. Along with it will go hot sweet corn and German potato salad.

LAST YEAR'S Fest-goers drank 40 half barrels of beer and consumed 3,000 bratwurst.

As part of the festival, the Community Arts League of Wheeling and Buffalo Grove is holding an art fair featuring more than 65 Chicagoland artists and craftsmen.

The Bank of Buffalo Grove, the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank and the Village of Wheeling will all present purchase awards at the show; a Best of Show award will include a dinner for two at Don Roth's Blackhawk Restaurant in Wheeling; and a cash award is being donated by Double M Realty in Wheeling.

Three door prizes are to be given out including an oil painting by Palanda Graves of Arlington Heights, an acrylic painting by Buffalo Grove artist Ted Uskali and a ceramic beer stein donated by Slip-Inn Ceramics of Wheeling.

JUDGES FOR the art fair are Myrtle Fitterer, art teacher at Cooper Junior High School; Jacquiline Rapp, from Countryside Gallery in Arlington Heights; and Donald Wheelier of Riverwoods, a commercial artist and illustrator.

Sentimental touches to bride's attire

Several individual touches blending the old and the new were chosen by Cynthia Louise Pitts of Mount Prospect for her June 23 wedding.

As she became the bride of John Robert Hitt of Elmhurst, she wore a silver pendant which he had given her when they first met just a year ago to the day of their marriage. She also wore her great-grandmother's wedding ring.

Guests entering the sanctuary of Southminster Presbyterian Church, Arlington Heights, for the 7 p.m. nuptials were greeted by classical guitar music played by Peter Swenson of Crystal Lake, a friend of the bride. He also played and sang "The Wedding Song" during the double ring rites.

CYNTHIA, DAUGHTER of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Pitts of 101 S. We-Go Trail, wore a gown of white organza over taffeta with Empire waist, high neck and long sleeves. Rows of narrow floral Venise lace banded the neck and a square yoke encircled the waist, and ran down the sleeves and the A-line skirt.

Completing her attire, Cynthia had a Camelot headpiece with elbow-length veil and a cascade bouquet of white roses and carnations.

Her roommate at Illinois State University, Linda O'Harrow of Beardstown, Ill., was maid of honor. She wore a peach colored jumper over a long sleeved white blouse with high neck and lace cuffs and carried two peach roses.

Three bridesmaids came down the church aisle, all wearing an ensemble identical to the maid of honor's but in other pastel shades. Linda Fack of Westmont, Ill., wore a yellow jumper over a white blouse and carried two yellow roses. Rita Seleski of Merrillville, Ind., wore a mint green jumper with roses to match and Mary Toombs, Urbana, wore beige with champagne roses complementing her attire. Mrs. Toombs is a sister of the groom.

JOHN, WHOSE parents are the Henry C. Hitts of Elmhurst, had a close friend, Bob Ellis of Elmhurst, as best man. His groomsmen were Mel Lencioni of Chicago, the bride's Brother Ken, and Jim Toombs, Urbana.

The groom's attendants wore white dinner jackets, black trousers and shirts to match the various shades of the girls' jumpers.

After the service there was a reception and dancing for 185 guests at Casa Royale in Des Plaines. Among them were the couple's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Pitts of Minneapolis, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Morphew, Mankato, Minn., and Mrs. Robert Nohr, Hollywood, Fla.

Cynthia is a third grade teacher at Darien, Ill., and a graduate of Prospect High School and Illinois State. Her husband attends Elmhurst College while working for Ekco Products as a sales administrator.

They are living in Lombard since their honeymoon at Manitowish Waters, Wis.

Mrs. John R. Hitt

They sailed into marriage

The former Barbara Manny of Palatine and her bridegroom of June 23, Peter Bohn of Rock Island, will probably sail through many happy years of marriage, if their courtship is a preview of what's ahead.

Barbara, an expert sailor, discovered Peter's sense of humor and determination on their first date — sailing. She capsized the boat, staying dry herself, but sent him into the deep water only to find he came up laughing. He quickly learned to sail following the episode, and Barbara knew from that "test" that he would make the most suitable lifelong partner.

SHE IS THE daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harvey Manny of Naples, Fla., former residents of Des Plaines. Barbara graduated from Maine West High School and Illinois State University, taught physical education at Algonquin Junior High, Des Plaines, and then at Conant and Schaumburg High Schools. In fall she will teach at the new Hoffman Estates High.

Her husband's parents are the Andrew Bohns of Rock Island. Peter has a degree in electrical engineering from Iowa State University and recently became employed by the Austin Co., Des Plaines.

The pair exchanged vows and rings at 6 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church of Palatine. The wedding party consisted of the bride's two sisters and three brothers and the groom's sister, along with a friend of Peter's, David Peterson of Schaumburg, as best man.

Marilyn Manny of San Francisco was maid of honor; Sara Manny and Bonnie Bohn, bridesmaids. Jim, Dick and John Manny ushered.

THE BRIDE'S ensemble was an Empire gown of white organza appliqued in white floral lace and a three-tiered short veil attached to a Camelot headpiece. The lace appliques edged the high neck and sheer yoke and were repeated on the long sheer sleeves and a panel down the skirt front. The dress ended in a chapel train.

Phalaenopsis, stephanotis and camellias were in the bride's cascade bouquet.

Her attendants were gowned alike in lime green chiffon with yellow and apricot floral appliques on the scoop neckline, Empire waist and cuffs of the long sleeves. They carried colonial arrangements of white French carnations and apricot glads accented by apricot ribbon.

A dinner was served to 150 guests at the Sheraton O'Hare South after the ceremony. The evening concluded with dancing.

After a week's honeymoon at Mackinac Island and Whitehall, Mich., the newlyweds are living in Palatine.

Overeating problem? This group may help

Compulsive eaters are invited to the local meetings of Overeaters Anonymous at 7:30 Monday evenings in the Dunton Room of Arlington Heights Library, corner of Euclid and Dunton avenues.

Purpose of the organization is to help members stop overeating, to achieve and maintain normal weight and to practice a better way of life, using the same principles as Alcoholics Anonymous.

OA recently opened its new world service office in Hollywood, Calif.

Correction

The Herald erroneously identified an employment agency in a July 18 story, "Jobs are there for those who want one," as Roland Arlington Heights. The agency, formerly a Roland office, is now Harris Services, Inc. The agency also reported that two men have been added to its staff of counselors, erroneously referred to in the article as all-female.

Barbara Ann Jenko wed in mother's bridal gown

A family heirloom cross worn by brides in the Frank Jenko family of Arlington Heights was part of Barbara Ann Jenko's attire for her June 17 wedding. She also wore her mother's bridal gown of satin and lace, remodeled by a friend, Irene Demmie of Palatine.

Barbara and Joseph N. Santucci, also of Arlington, were married in St. James Catholic Church in a mid-afternoon service.

The bride's family lives at 440 S. Prindle and the groom's family, the Pasquale Santuccis, at 17 N. Rammer Ave.

Joe's sister, Mrs. Patricia Carleton of Arlington, was Barbara's matron of honor and six of her friends were bridesmaids. They included Debbie Wallers, Chicago; Cindy Straub, Arlington; Linda Gilchrist, Buffalo Grove; Betsy Murphy, Mount Prospect; and Mrs. Sharon Buhrke, Hanover Park.

The groom chose Barbara's brother, Sgt. Dennis Jenko of the U.S. Marines, as his best man. Sgt. Jenko came from Quantico, Va., for the festivities.

HIS OTHER attendants were Pete Larson, Bill Carleton, Greg Herner and Jim Brady, all of Arlington; Tom Buhrke, Hanover Park; and Bruce Peterson of Arlington, who was home on leave from the U.S. Navy at Midway Island.

Also in the wedding party were Beth and Chris Nelsen, cousins of the bride from Virginia, Minn. Beth, 3, was flower girl and Chris, 6 ring bearer.

After the ceremony, at which the groom's cousin, Josephine Seiler, was soloist, there was a reception for 230 guests at Casa Royale, Des Plaines.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Santucci

The newlyweds are now living in a quadro home in Schaumburg.

Barbara and Joe are graduates of Prospect High School, and she then attended Harper College. He is with Arlington Oil Co. in Park Ridge.

It's fashion

Don't jump off the high platform shoes yet, says the American Footwear Institute. There's a lot of happy hoofing left there, especially for the young, who still have their hearts set on the high-rise soles.

New evening sandals for fall and winter dazzle in silver, copper and bronze. They are next to nothing strips of satin.

The pump is showing up in many guises for fall and winter. One sample: the crepe pump-bump-toed and high-heeled, it's got the casual set all agog, says the American Footwear Institute.

The pump this fall and winter will wear a bow for afternoon or late day. The bow will be glenplaid or pinstriped for afternoon and will pretty up in silver kid for evening. One version seen in a preview of the new shoe styles is all dolled up in satin and pearls.

Youth shall be served, says the American Footwear Institute, and to that end there's a whole cavalcade of casual foot attire to warm the cockles of the young at heart for back to school. Included is kicky fun footgear that snubs its toes and has a heel of chunks of cork and wood or stacks of leather.

Accidents up

Accidents killed a record number of Americans last year and cost the nation an estimated $32.3 billion according to preliminary estimates by the National Safety Council.

The 1972 accidental death total was estimated at 117,000, a two per cent increase from 1971. Disabling injuries from all types of accidents numbered 11.4 million, including 420,000 which resulted in some degree of permanent impairment.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: We have a tick problem — not around our house, but through the small public park we have to traverse to get to our boat. Somebody suggested I spray with malathion, but I'm a little cautious because I'm not sure it's safe with children and dogs all over the park. Any ideas? — Martha Cox

Go ahead and use some malathion. In the strength you can buy it for outdoor pests, I hardly think it would be harmful to children or pets. Really, though, this seems like something you ought to call to the attention of the city officials. It's their responsibility to make such an area safe for everyone and the ticks might be more dangerous to the young than a good spraying.

Dear Dorothy: I'm told you have a simple solution for cleaning varnished, polished furniture. What is it? —Alice Denny

It's an old-time remedy — vinegar and water. The proportion is supposed to be a cup of vinegar to a gallon of water, but I just put a few drops in a small pan of water, wring a cloth in it, give the wood surface a quick swipe and then wipe dry with a dry cloth.

Dear Dorothy: My little girl wrote all over her vinyl doll with a ballpoint pen. Any way to remove it? — Martha Dodge

I can only repeat the outdoor advice. Doll hospitals believe in it, too — say the only thing that will remove ballpoint ink stains from vinyl dolls is the effect of the sun and the dew. Leave it outdoors for as long as it takes.

Dear Dorothy: How come you can't freeze whole tomatoes? — Doris M.

Simple reason — they fall apart when thawed. This is why most people with extra tomatoes stew them for freezing or make tomato juice.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Presbyterians early colonial settlers

by LOUIS CASSELS

The Presbyterian Church was born in Scotland and came to America with the Scots and Scotch-Irish, who were among the earliest settlers of the colonies.

Centered initially in New York and Pennsylvania, Presbyterianism gradually spread south along the Blue Ridge mountains, and westward with the expanding frontier.

Having little love for the English king, whose rule their ancestors had fought for generations, the Scotish and Scotch-Irish colonials ardently supported the cause of independence in the Revolutionary War and were highly influential in the establishment of the new Republic of the United States.

THEIR INFLUENCE can be seen in the Constitution, which gives the United States a system of representative government remarkably similar to the "presbyterial" system of church government from which this denomination gets its name.

The term Presbyterian comes from the Greek word "presbuterous," meaning elder. Each local congregation is ruled by a "session" composed of its minister the "teaching elder" and a group of laymen elected by the congregation "ruling elders."

A session in turn sends two representatives — the minister and an elected lay elder — to the local presbytery, which has jurisdiction over all the congregations in a particular city or comparable area. Above presbyteries are regional synods, and at the top of the whole structure is a national General Assembly.

Few systems of church government have worked so well in maintaining a balance between the right of church members to have a voice in decision making and the need for strong central authority.

THE CONCEPT of the presbyterial system, like much else in the Presbyterian Church, comes from a dour old Scot named John Knox, who was one of the most fearless leaders of the Protestant Reformation, as well as one of the unabashed male chauvinists in the history of the church.

A disciple and close friend of the great Geneva reformer, John Calvin, Knox established the Protestant faith in Scotland over the vehement objections of that country's reigning Roman Catholic queen, Mary.

History has romanticized Mary, Queen of Scots, but she was a stubborn woman with a will of iron. She encountered in Knox an almost identical personality. They had many bitter clashes, and there was little doubt of whom Knox was speaking when he published in 1558 a pamphlet entitled: "First Blast of the Trumpet Against the Monstrous Government of Women."

In this polemic, Knox contended that giving authority to women, in church or state, is a thing "repugnant to nature, contumely to God, and a subversion of good order, equity and justice."

FORTUNATELY FOR women, who comprise more than half the church's membership, this particular teaching of Knox's has long since been repudiated. Today women can and do hold office in Presbyterian churches, although they still suffer, as do women in virtually all other denominations, from a good deal of residual sexual discrimination and tokenism.

Knox did not attempt to create a theological system of his own. He simply took over the ideas of his mentor, Calvin. The distinctive theme of Calvin's theology is the absolute sovereignty of God. Calvin was never troubled by the question asked by so many others in the face of tragic events: "Why did a loving God let this happen?" His answer was that God, having created all that is, is totally free to treat His creatures as He sees fit.

Calvin went a step further and held that each human being is "predestined" before birth to be saved or damned. This doctrine places God in such a horrible light as a cruel manipulator of helpless human beings that Presbyterians swept it under the rug soon after Calvin's death. Today, if mentioned at all, predestination is "interpreted" in terms that bear very little resemblance to what Calvin originally meant.

IN OTHER AREAS of doctrine, Presbyterian theology today ranges all over the spectrum, from rigorous fundamentalism which insists on the verbal infallibility of the Bible, to wayout liberalism which denies the physical reality of Christ's resurrection and reduces God to a rather abstract idea. The vast majority of Presbyterians occupy a middle ground of rather orthodox Protestant belief.

On social issues, as in doctrine, there are sharp schisms in the Presbyterian fold. Again, the range is from stalwart political conservatism, which views welfare payments as a crime against the Puritan work ethic, to ardent liberalism which seeks to place the church in the forefront of the battle against war, discrimination and poverty.

Sometimes the strains of internal dissension become too great, and result in the kind of fragmentation that has plagued Protestantism from its inception. The Civil War produced the greatest split among American Presbyterians — one that still exists today. Most southern Presbyterians belong to a denomination about 1 million members officially known as the Presbyterian Church in the United States. In the rest of the country, the major body with some 3,400,000 members is the United Presbyterian Church.

They periodically talk about merging but have never been able to sell the idea to the required majority of their presbyteries.

IN ADDITION, there are eight other Presbyterian bodies in this country, ranging in size from the Cumberland Presbyterian Church with 90,000 members to the Associate Presbyterian Church of North America, with fewer than 500 members.

Presbyterians attach great importance to seemliness. They take very seriously St. Paul's admonition to "Let everything be done decently and in order." Their passion for propriety is reflected in their worship services, which are plain, simple and dignified. Like many other Protestant denominations, Presbyterians have moved in recent years toward a richer liturgy, with greater emphasis on the service of Holy Communion. But the typical Presbyterian service continues to be built around "proclamation of the Word of God' 'through preaching and Bible reading, interspersed with hymns and prayers.

GENERALLY SPEAKING, Presbyterian churches draw their constituency from the upward-mobile sector of the middle class. Even more than Episcopalians, Presbyterians are "the Establishment at prayer."

The two major Presbyterian bodies are among the richest denominations, both in terms of their own endowment funds and other resources and also in terms of the ability of their membership to fork over for fund drives. Presbyterian ministers are well educated and, by clergy standards, unusually well paid.

In almost any branch of civil government, from a city council to Congress, you will find a disproportionate number of Presbyterians. In the present Congress, for example, 15 of the 100 senators and 63 of the 435 representatives are Presbyterians. Six Presidents have been Presbyterians, the most recent being Woodrow Wilson and Dwight D. Eisenhower.

'Born of prejudice and ignorance'

Court to study teacher maternity leave

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Supreme Court will accept briefs this summer in two cases that challenge arbitrary, forced maternity leave for pregnant teachers.

"The mandatory-leave policy for pregnant teachers was born out of prejudice and ignorance," asserted Susan Cohen, a social studies teacher in Chesterfield County, Va., in her appeal of a lower court ruling. She was the nation's first teacher to carry her challenge of a mandatory maternity leave policy to the highest court.

"In a very few instances it has been sustained as a matter of convenience," her petition said of the maternity policy. "It must be viewed for what it truly is, an anachronism, and nothing more."

ALSO PENDING before the Supreme Court is an appeal by the Cleveland, Ohio, school board from the first appeals court decision favorable to teachers in the area of maternity leave.

The two cases represent a recent wave of challenges to school board policies that require pregnant teachers to take unpaid leave for a specified period of time. Other challenges have been raised by teachers in Alabama, California, Connecticut, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Washington state.

Generally, lawsuits ask the courts to guarantee the teachers their equal protection rights under the 14th Amendment in situations involving forced maternity leave, loss of retirement and salary benefits, endangered tenure and seniority rights and policies relating to reemployment after child-birth.

Providing legal expenses and support to the three teachers whose challenges have reached the Supreme Court is the 1.2 million member National Education Association, (NEA).

"Support of teachers in these pending cases demonstrates NEA's commitment to equal employment for women and its efforts to eliminate discriminatory practices against women in employment, personnel policies, compensation and promotion," an NEA spokesman said.

THE CLEVELAND policy requires a pregnant teacher to take an unpaid leave of absence five months before the expected birth of a child and to continue on such status until the beginning of the first school term after the baby becomes three months old, NEA said.

In a decision that called the policy "arbitrary and unreasonable in its overbreadth," the Sixth Circuit U.S. Court of Appeals in Cincinnati said:

"Under no construction of this record can we conclude that the medical evidence presented supports the extended periods of mandatory maternity leave required by the rule both before and after birth of the child."

The court noted that the policy was established two decades ago for instructional continuity, relief of administrative problems and because "teachers suffered many indignities as a result of pregnancy, which consisted of children pointing, giggling, laughing and making snide remarks."

Ordinance No. 73-84

AN ORDINANCE ESTABLISHING SPEED LIMITS ON CERTAIN STREETS IN THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

WHEREAS, traffic surveys have been made to determine the proper rate of speed to be imposed as the maximum speed limit of certain streets within the Village of Arlington Heights; and

WHEREAS, the President and Board of Trustees have considered such surveys and studies and have determined that the public interest requires that speed be limited on certain streets as hereinafter set forth; and

WHEREAS, it is the desire of the President and Board of Trustees to limit the speed of traffic on said streets as hereinafter set forth;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE PRESIDENT AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS:

Rammer Avenue from Miner Street to Gregory Street
Donald Avenue from Miner Street to Gregory Street.

SECTION TWO: It shall be unlawful for any person to drive any vehicle upon such streets at a speed which is greater than twenty-five (25) miles per hour. SECTION THREE: The Village Manager is hereby directed to post appropriate signs upon the designated streets for the purpose of notifying drivers of all vehicles as to the applicable maximum speed limit.

SECTION FOUR: Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the terms of this ordinance shall be fined not more than $500.00 for each such offense.

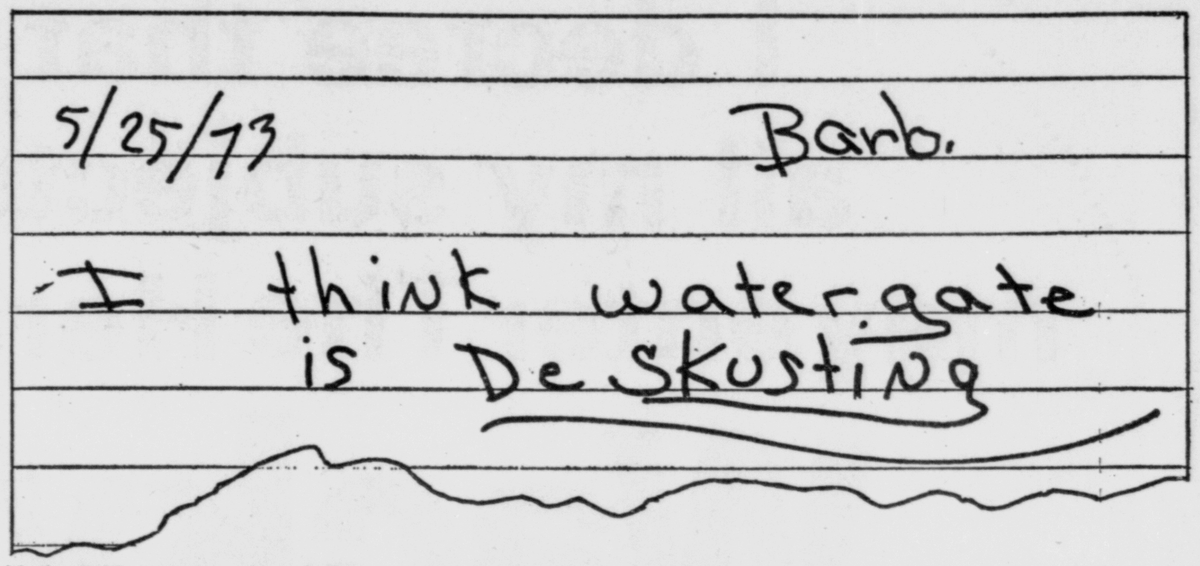
What 9-year-olds think of Watergate

by TOM TIEDE

SADDLE RIVER, N.J. -- It has been observed that the doings of adults are often less confusing then merely annoying to children. The sage of Watergate seems to bear this out — at least among many of the fourth grade students in this community's Wandel School.

Teachers asked two classes of the 9-10 year-olds "What is your reaction to Watergate?" The answers indicate (1) the reaction is basically "deskust" and (2) tne wisdom of the world is not solely a province of the aged.

While several children replied honestly that they did not know anything about Watergate, which is probably what a good many adults should say but don't, and while a bemused few diplomatically defined Watergate simply as something that releases water in which one can go "swoshing around," the majority offered brief but sage opinions. Examples:



"I HERD THEY buged the presedets offes and they hid a mike in a cigeret."

"I don't like it! It's Robbery."

"I think the Presedent sent men to lie about him. Therefor the people were cheted into voting for him."

"I think it was deskusting."

"Descusting!!!" "I just hope they have (make) peace."

"I think President Nixon was involved because they couldn't of been bugging the phones and listening in on plans all behind Mr. Nixons' back."

"My name is Vicky!"

"Discussting."

"It's the 1972 Nixon capion tampring with the 72 Mogovern capain and all the good TV shows off the air.

ONLY A FEW of the children in this heavily Republican area sided flatly with Richard Nixon. One said he didn't think Nixon should be "empeached", and added: "I think McCord should of shut his mouth and listened to the President." Another wondered why Martha Mitchell is making such a fuss. And a third said simply: "I think Micgovern must have something to hide or this hole thing No5 Friday 7-20
Just deskusting 4-18 bold
What 9-year-olds 442
wouldn't have happened."

But of all the opinions perhaps the one from a lass named Terry Ann is most appropriate. She wrote: "I don't know why the Republicans had to spy on the demacrots for. Because if nixon was a good president he wouldn't have to know what the democrots were doing."

by RALPH NOVAK

"With everyone talking about "Watergate" these days, it is important that we make it perfectly clear exactly what we mean.

So you might want to keep this glossary of Watergate terms next to your TV set.

Watergate Complex — This is a newly coined psychiatric term used to describe a peculiar form of neurosis that has hit the United States recently, especially in the Washington, D.C., San Clemente, Calif., and Key Biscayne, Fla., areas. Its symptoms include loss of memory, aversion to crowds and an odd tendency to point one's index finger at whoever is standing nearby.

National Security — What we used to have but don't have any more. See National Insecurity.

Inoperative Statement — Do you remember how when you were a kid if you said something with your fingers crossed it didn't count? This is more or less the same principle only you don't have to cross your fingers.

Scorecard — What you can't tell the players without. Of course you can't tell players with one, either, since there aren't any and nobody knows the score in the first place.

Involved — Convicted of, charged with, suspected of, reported to be, allegedly or perhaps being mixed up with the Watergate controversy. So far this includes everybody in the country except Dick Clark, the residents of Boys Town, Neb., and Harmon Kilebrew.

White House Aides — The old name for the people who worked as President Nixon's assistants. See Occupying Forces.

Plumbers — So named because they were highly paid, and took forever to do their job iincompetently, these were the men the President's aides charged with making America safe for democracy. See National Security.

Executive Privilege — This is the informal rule that gives 50-year-old government officials the right to use that time-honored retort of two-year-olds everywhere: "Won't!" See Executive Poppycock. Do not see Ervin, Sam if you know what's good for you.

Deniability — When you ask a friend who knows somebody to get you a pair of hot hubcaps but insist that he not tell you where he got them, you are seeking deniability. See What I Don't Know Won't Hurt Me.

Responsibility — What everybody used to want but doesn't want any more. See Hot Potato.

Zeal — Something that the Occupying Forces have a lot less of than did the White House Aides. But then again, they do have a lot more judgment. We hope.

Executive Clemency — The governmental equivalent of a mother saying, "He's such a good boy; I can't believe he really meant to do any harm." Used to win friends and influence sentences. See Bribery.

Impeachment — In football, this is known as being ejected from the game as a penalty for violating the rules. And in life as in football, everyone is supposed to follow the rules. See Wishful Thinking.

Immunity — Something like a vaccination, this will protect you from contracting the Watergate Complex. It causes some unpleasant side effects, however, notably a loss of popularity and a lessening of the chances tnat you will ever be able to get a job with the Republicans again.

CIA — Formerly the nation's intelligence agency, this is now the federal government's miscellaneous department. Whenever somebody has an odd job they need done — like visiting a psychiatrist's office at 3 o'clock in the morning or holding a wig distribution or guarding the National Security of China — they get themselves a CIA man. Also known as the Taxi Squad.

Checks and Balances System — The basis of the American form of government, so-called because of the many exchanges of checks and additions to bank balances that occur.

Peace With Honor — The condition that can hopefully be brought to Washington, D.C., by negotiations and compromise if possible, by B-52 strikes on the Congress if necessary. See Four More Years?
